YOU KNOW the fable about "the Mountain in Labor." Much groaning and travailing, and when the critical moment came, out popped a little mouse. That was the mountain's baby about which it had been making all the fuss.

That story of the mountain must come back to Mr. Edward W. Bok as he contemplates the result of his $100,000 peace prize offer. It's a very small mouse that he got for his money.

THAT BOK prize peace plan will amuse you. Poor Mr. Bok must feel rather silly paying $50,000 for a suggestion that the people of the United States should do now what four years ago they refused to do with 7,000,000 votes to spare.

GO INTO the World Court now and join the League on a modified basis is the $50,000 suggestion. It is as though serious people, discussing what they should have for dinner, should see a well-meaning doggie drag in a cat long dead and offer that as a solution.

The League of Nations is a dead cat.

The United States doesn't intend to join the League of Nations, doesn't intend to pay Europe's bills, or be held responsible for them, and does not intend to enter any World Court that would cause the affairs of the United States to be submitted to a foreign tribunal.

Mr. Bok can charge his $50,000 to experience.

"MARKET buoyant on a big turnover" was the Wall Street line yesterday. There were bought 1,319,000 shares of various stocks and nearly all of them traveled upward.

It would be hard to find cause for gloom as regards this country's prosperity. If our lawmakers would allow enough immigrants, of the kind that this country needs, to come in to develop unused acres, and consume surplus products, conditions would be even better.

The worker who thinks that immigrants reduce wages should remember that the average man makes today, with 110,000,000 people in the country, from six to ten times as much as he made when there were only 4,000,000 people here.

GET NOW the overcoat that you have perhaps neglected getting thus far. Cold waves are starting in the North and traveling in various directions. You will not escape the Winter's cold, and there is no greater folly than to economize on the warmth that means health. One severe cold might cost you a great deal more than several dozen overcoats.

THE British are building the biggest dam in the world on the Indus River. It will be a mile long, nearly a thousand feet high. Sixty-six gigantic steel gates will control the waters of

373 PUPILS MARCH TO SAFETY

Children Unaware of Blaze That Causes $1,000 Loss in Roger Swan School

Pupils of the Roger Swan public school in Dorchester sat up in glee today when they heard the fire drill signal. They numbered 373. They like a fire drill. It gives them the opportunity to rise, stretch themselves and march out into the frosty air.

"Put your wraps on," teachers ordered today.

They did so.

When they reached the street they were told they were dismissed and not to return until tomorrow.

Wondering, they scattered for home, gleeful.

Two minutes later fire apparatus was clanging toward the schoolhouse. An overheated furnace had set the first floor ablaze. Firemen fought the fire without hindrance from the kiddies, who marched on unaware their schoolhouse or lives had been in danger.

John Kenny, a fireman, was hurt fighting the blaze, which was extinguished with damage of $1,000. His hurts are not serious.

The school is located at Thetford avenue and Maxwell street.

Fall River Nuns Lead 350 Children to Safety

Fall River, Jan. 8.—Nine Dominician Sisters and three lay teachers led 350 children to safety through smoke-filled halls today during a fire in the basement of the parochial school of St. Anne's parish at No. 67 Hunter street.

All of the children in the building were in the lower grades. Despite the clanging of fire gongs throughout the building, the boys and girls heeded the orders of their teachers and filed in orderly manner to the

Dempsey - Gibbons Bout During G.O.P. Convention

St. Louis, Jan. 8 (I.N.S.).—A Dempsey-Gibbons fight of fifteen rounds to a decision at Cleveland during the Republican national convention was the ambitious plan announced here today by James C. Mullen, Chicago promoter. "That's my program," Mullen declared, "but a lot will have to be accomplished before it can be carried out."

SHAKEDOWN IS TOLD BY McDONALD

Donovan's Lawyer Again Relates How He "Settled" for $17,500 After the Raid

James L. Donovan, Boston leatner merchant, "shaken down" by the alleged blackmail ring for $17,500, was called to the witness stand in the trial of William J. "Big Bill" Corcoran and Attorney Henry E. Levenson in Superior Court today.

He asked if he had any objections to Attorney John F. McDonald, who acted as his counsel at the time of the alleged shakedown, testifying as to the details of the settlement.

He replied that he had no objections, was excused and left the courtroom.

Attorney McDonald then testified that Donovan was threatened with criminal prosecution by Levenson following his being trapped in the Allston apartment of Mrs. Theresa Dugan, alleged ring lure.

He told of how he paid Levenson and Corcoran $17,500 on Donovan's behalf to prevent prosecution in Brighton Court.

Prosecutor Hill introduced a letter from Levenson to McDonald which stated a hearing on the application for a warrant was fixed for June 4, 1919. Attorney Duggett, representing Levenson, admitted the letter bore his client's signature.

Judge Thomas H. Connelly of Brighton Court testified Levenson applied to him for a warrant in the Donovan case, that Attorney McDonald protested indignantly, and that there was a spirited discussioin in court.

McDonald, he testified, visited him

BOK PLAN SCORED BY SENATORS

Ridiculed as "League Hoax" by Lodge and Others; Probe of the Contest Demanded

Washington, Jan. 8. — The much-heralded and widely advertised $100,000 Bok "Peace Plan" appeared likely today to become the first subject for investigation by the Senate under the Reed resolution to probe all propaganda seeking to drive the United States into the affairs of Europe.

The first direct result of publication of the plan was to stimulate interest in the Reed resolution, which now is regarded as sure to pass.

Some leaders heard from many members demands for immediate action on the resolution in order that an inquiry may be made into the source of the Bok plan, and also to find out who are the contributors to the $100,000 prize, which is to be paid to the "winner."

Several Senators openly characterized the Bok plan as a piece of highly financed propaganda designed for the sole purpose reviving interest in the discarded League of Nations.

They will back Senator Reed in his demand for an investigation into

SAYS LODGE 'FIXED' UP RUM CASE

Gave Him Fountain Pen for Good Offices, "Go-Between" Told Druggist

Senator Lodge is an awfully good fellow to fix you up if you get in wrong with the prohibiton squad.

And reasonable, too.

For a fountain pen, or so, the dignified statesman from Nahant would go a long way.

At least that's the yarn that William F. Riley of Somerville, who is said to be connected with the Republican State Committee, told Judge Bishop in Superior Criminal Court today.

Senator Lodge

Riley was indicted on a charge of larceny of $700 and and a fur neckpiece from Jacob Hoffman, a drug store proprietor at No. 43 Chelsea stret, Charlestown.

TOUTED AS "FIXER."

Hoffman told the court that Riley, who was recommended to him as a first rate fixer following difficulties over liquor violations, removed a fountain pen from the store case during the course of an interview. Hoffman said he let Riley "get away with it" the first time, but remonstrated with him on the occasion of a second interview when Riley repeated the first performance.

"I need this one for myself. I had to give the first one to Senator Lodge when I was in Washington for you," Riley is alleged to have explained to Hoffman.

According to Hoffman, Riley declared he would have to make a trip to Washington to "fix" the liquor violation.

CASH AND FUR FOR WIFE.

Riley, moreover, informed Hoffman that he would need his wife's company on the trip and exacted expenses for her trip.

"And how about something for the Missus' neck," suggested Riley to Hoffman, the latter charged, when Hoffman had come through with several hundred dollars for the trip of the Riley family to Washington.

"And I went out, Your Honor, and bought Riley a neckpiece for $65 for his wife's traveling costume," said Hoffman mournfully to the court.

Riley is out on bail pending a further hearing of the charge.

MRS. ELLSWORTH BASSETT

WIFE TO ASK DIVORCE IN PUTNAM TANGLE

Follow today's developments in the triangle in which Nina Wilcox Putnam Sanderson, famous writer, is accused of endeavoring to steal a clam-digger for a husband from a petite librarian in Madison, Ct.

The irate young wife, Gertrude Petri Bassett, announced she would sue for divorce from Ellsworth Bassett and also institute a civil suit against the authoress for alienating his affections.

Mrs. Sanderson hurried to New York from her Winter home in Delray, Fla., and immediately branded the love theft charges absurd and revealed Bassett as having started in her employ not as a chauffeur, but as a nurse.

Bassett, over the long distance telephone, said in Delray that the whole mess was all news to him and that he was still on friendly terms with his wife.

The famous all night conference at the writer's Summer studio in Madison in which Mrs. Bassett charges Mrs. Sanderson attempted to per-

EX-LAWYER IS CLEARED BY JUDGE WAIT

Justice Discusses Suit of Former Hotel Man in Lengthy Decision Today

Daniel H. Coakley, disbarred Boston attorney, sued for $50,000 by Myer Berman, former Higgins House proprietor, who alleged he was shaken down for that amount back in 1916, was vindicated by Justice Wait in Supreme Court today and the suit dismissed.

Justice Wait heard the suit as a Superior Court Judge. His opinion came today following his elevation to the Supreme Court bench. In it he made the following comment:

"The conduct of Coakley, Corcoran, Gordon and Doyle is consistent with a conspiracy to strip Myer Berman, but there is no evidence of such conspiracy worthy the name of evidence.

"Equity has always required clear evidence of fraud. It may be furnished by inference, but equity does not permit it to be mere suspicion and guesswork.

"And, after consideration, I believe Mr. Coakley's story."

This was to the effect that Coakley had acted as Berman's counsel when the hotel proprietor was threatened with a suit following the finding of a married woman registered with a man, not her husband, at the

PRESTON HOME ON NO. SHORE IS ROBBED

Raid on Wine Cellar of Former Mrs. Ong Linked With Her Famous Divorce Case

So much mystery has been thrown around the burglarizing of the North Shore home of the daughter of Andrew W. Preston, founder of the $100,000,000 United Fruit Company, that other residents of Swampscott were wondering today whether the cleaning out of the Preston wine cellar may by any chance have been a strange outcropping of the sensational Ong-Penfield divorce case of 1920-'22.

Legally, the owner of the Swampscott house which burglars ransacked from top to bottom is known as Mrs. Bessie Preston. Preston also is now the legal name of her three young children. Until January, 1923, however, she was Mrs. Eugene W. Ong, and Ong, an attorney of distinction and through his connection with Andrew W. Preston, of great power, was general counsel, a director and the "authoritative" vice-president of United Fruit.

ONLY CELLAR DISTURBED.

A peculiar, and it may be significant, statement attributed to the Swampscott police today is that Ong has not "officially" visited the Swampscott place since his wife divorced him. Their three children have been adopted by Grandpa Preston.

John D'Arcy, the younger Mrs. Preston's chauffeur, visited the Swampscott house last Saturday and upon his return to the Winter home of the family in Brookline reported everything in shipshape.

When D'Arcy next visited the house, however, he found everything topsy-turvy. Nothing appeared to have been taken except from the wine cellar. That had been literally cleaned out. No one will discuss its recent contents, but it is said on good authority that at current prices they represented a small fortune. A considerable part of the stock of wines and liquors believed to have been purchased abroad by the once powerful Eugene Ong, who, his acquaintances say, was a person of rare taste and great discrimination.

SHOCKS SOCIETY.

But why should the name of be even mentioned, in connec with the removal of his former w wines and liquors? That is a q tion which Swampscott cannot will not answer. Swampscott is pr Preston, and the once commandine Mr. Ong has passed out of its hool forever. No one has seen him tl for months.

The discovery that Ong and Alice Lucille Bacon Penfield had visited a Washington, D. C., hotel together shocked society in 1920 and was followed by startling charges against Ong by Walter Scott Penfield, an attorney of international reputation. Mr. Penfield was the lady's husband. He placed the alleged facts in the case before Father-in-law Preston and two divorces and one marriage followed comparatively soon afterwards.

The former Mrs. Penfield is now Mrs. Ong. The former Mrs. Ong is Preston again, and the wine cellar which Eugene Ong has not visited since the divorce — "officially," Swampscott query says—is empty.

the Indus, irrigating a territory nearly as great as all England.

One single canal will supply water to five hundred thousand acres of rice land, enough to feed millions of Hindus.

THAT KIND of building in India by the British is better than useless monuments that ancient rajahs used to build for their own comfort or glory. It's better than Gandhi's suggestion of a boycott on the English, and going back to the handloom. That one single British enterprise will do more to wipe out starvation in India than ever was done by all the rajahs that ever ruled the country. Let that be remembered to the credit of our British cousins.

LENIN, of Russia, carrying bullets fired into him by at least two would-be assassins, and often pronounced dying or dead by newspapers, has been out twice recently hunting in the forest. He seems to possess a constitution almost as tough as that of his Soviet government.

ONE ASSASSIN tried to kill Kemal Pasha, up to date ruler of Turkey, and succeeded only in injuring his wife.

Another assassin, of a sort hitherto unknown to Japan, threw a bomb against the royal palace.

It is hard for Western people to understand what that means to the Japanese. The Mikado to them is still the "Son of Heaven," in spite of flying machines, tractors and machine guns.

IT IS quite likely that one or more Japanese of the ancient type will feel impelled, by duty, to commit hari-kari, ripping open the stomach with a knife especially made for the job, to express horror at the blasphemous attack on the Mikado's holy body.

We see in the Mikado only a very polite, well-meaning gentleman. He means something much more than that to eighty per cent. of the Japanese.

DEFY DRYS IN TONIC 'SEIZURE'

Steamship Employers Refuse to Allow Dry Agents to Take the Stuff From Vessel

Federal prohibition enforcement officers were defied today by employes of the Coastal Steamship Corporation when the dry agents went to Battery Wharf to seize 800 cases of "hair tonic" which contained 86 per cent. alcohol.

The Federal officers were tipped off by a telegram from New York that the shipment was on the Augusta, which arrived yesterday and sailed today. They went to the wharf, but having no warrant and authority, the persons in charge at the wharf, in the absence of Manager Weeks of the line, refused delivery of it to the agents.

The agents took a sample, which is being analyzed, and at the Chauncy street headquarters today it was stated that if it is found that the hair tonic does not comply with the regulations covering the manufacture of propriety compounds it will be seized.

WILLETT TRIAL DELAYED AGAIN BY CONFERENCE

Defence Counsel Seeks to Show Plaintiff Was Satisfied With Settlement

Under cross-examination today George M. Willett, who is suing Robert F. Herrick and others for $15,000,000, testified the Norwood Housing Company, which is controlled by the Willett-Sears Company, acquired certain notes from Frank G. Allen, Willett's brother-in-law, only after litigation, about six months ago.

The trial is entering its ninth week and has been subject to many delays. One of the delays occurred today, the conference between the judge and the array of legal talent on each side lasting more than two hours.

Willett identified several letters he had written in July, 1919, relative to his purchase of claims held by the American Felt Company and the Daniel F. Green Felt Shoe Company, against the Industrial Service & Equipment Company.

Two of these letters were written to S. H. Fessenden, one of the defendants in the suit, and according to Attorney Hugh D. McLellan, counsel for Herrick, tend to show that Willett six months after signing the settlement of his affairs accepted that settlement.

BANDIT GETS 30 LASHES, LIFE TERM

"Red" Ryan, Captured in a Street Battle, Demands Jail After Receiving Letter

Toronto, Jan. 8.—Norman "Red" Ryan, bank bandit and escaped convict, who recently was captured with confederates in a street battle with Minneapolis police, today was sentenced by County Judge Coatsworth to imprisonment for life, with thirty lashes to be given at the rate of ten a month for three months.

Ryan was hurriedly tried and sentenced after he had received a letter from his brother, as he was being taken to Portsmouth penitentiary to await trial, which so angered him that he demanded an immediate trial. He changed his plea from not guilty to guilty.

Ryan, handcuffed between two deputies, received the letter as he paced the Union Station platform, awaiting a train.

He tore open the letter, read a few lines of it and his face flushed with wrath.

"Take me back," he said. "I want to change my plea to 'guilty.' Gimme a quick trial and send me up. That's all I want now."

The charges concerned the robbery of a local branch of the Bank of Nova Scotia, which occurred after Ryan escaped from a Dominion penitentiary.

FOUR ESCAPED CONVICTS CAUGHT

New Haven, Ct., Jan. 8.—Worcester (Mass.) policemen, arriving here today in numbers to take the four armed burglars who broke from the Worcester County jail after brutally assaulting one of the keepers, and who robbed a Worcester store before fleeing from the city in a stolen truck, were loud in their praise of the bravery of the New Haven officers who held the fugitives up single handed.

The policeman hero of the capture is William P. Shanley, one of the youngest members of the force, who last night in recognition of his exploit was promoted from Grade E to Grade A.

Only three of the four desperadoes were in condition to make the trip back to Worcester. Steve Nelson of Providence, a bullet in his leg, will be a patient for several days in St. Raphael's Hospital.

SEEKS 50-50 FIGHT PURSES; NO DECISION

Albany, Jan. 8.—Declaring "gamblers have gained control of boxing in New York," Assemblyman Henry O. Kahn, New York Democrat, today introduced a bill in the Legislature providing for no-decision fights and an equal distribution of purses.

GEO. OWEN TO WED DAUGHTER OF GRID STAR

Great Harvard Athlete Is Engaged to Miss Leonora Trafford of Milton

Dan Cupid captured George Owen, one of Harvard's greatest athletes, when he led him to a concert where Miss Leonora Trafford took part in a musical program.

Mr. and Mrs. Bernard M. Trafford of Milton have announced the engagement of their daughter. Mr. Trafford, who is vice-president of the First National Bank of Boston, says no date has been set for the wedding.

Owen was one of the greatest athletes ever turned out at Harvard. He was a star at hockey, baseball and football.

Mr. Trafford was captain of the Harvard football team in the early nineties and was rated one of the best kickers the game has ever seen.

VERMONT MAN TAKES OWN LIFE

St. Albans, Vt., Jan. 8.—Raymond Guyette, thirty-eight years old, a cigar manufacturer, was found dead today in his office. A revolver was in his right hand and a bullet wound just back of the right temple. He left a note stating that he took his own life. It is estimated that financial reverses prompted the act. He was a bridegroom of only a few months and leaves wife, mother and brother.

PHYSICIAN KILLS WIFE AND SELF

Crazed Doctor Also Wounds Employe as Tragic End to Ride in Family Sleigh

Hartford, N. Y., Jan. 8.—Greeted by a hail of bullets from the revolver of Dr. Robert Lee of this hamlet as they were returning from a sleigh ride, Mrs. Lee, the wife of Dr. Lee, was killed and Fred Norcross of Dorset, Vt., was critically wounded.

Dr. Lee then shot himself to death. Today Norcross was in a Glens Falls hospital, having been operated upon for the removal of a bullet from his abdomen.

The physician is said to have entered the yard of his home at the same time that his wife, Norcross and the Lees' four-year-old daughter drove in after having been out for a sleigh ride. Several shots were fired at Mrs. Lee, one of which proved fatal. The child escaped uninjured.

Norcross was shot down as he sat in the sleigh.

Dr. Lee then ran a short distance through the yard, stopped and shot himself to death.

Dr. Lee was fortyfour years old, while his wife was several years younger. They had two children, one four years old and one ten. The Lee family formerly lived in Dorset, the home of Norcross. Relatives and friends of Dr. Lee advanced the theory that his act was due to sudden insanity from overwork.

LOUISIANA IN TOW, CREW HALF FROZEN

Norfolk, Va., Jan. 8.—With the seven men of her skeleton crew safe but said to be suffering intensely from cold, the old battleship Louisiana, found after drifting at the will of a heavy gale since Saturday night, when she broke from moorings 80 miles at sea was being laboriously towed in by the cutters Manning and Mascoutin. It was hoped that abatement of the weather would permit an increase in the speed of less than two knots an hour so that the battleship could be brought to port here late today.

TAILOR'S MEMORY GOOD FOR 3 ARRESTS

Morris Schwartz, who conducts a tailor shop at No. 250 Shawmut avenue, has a good memory. When he saw a negro enter a rooming house at No. 1202 Washington street, South End, he promptly recognized him as one of the trio who entered his shop on December 26 and robbed him of 22. Police raided the house on Schwartz' tip. They found all three men who Schwartz claims robbed him. They gave their names as Charles Freeman, Harry Heckter and Robert F. Ford.

WILSON SHOWS NEW INTEREST IN POLITICS

Washington, Jan. 8 (I.N.S.)—Woodrow Wilson is politically more active today than he has been at any time since his retirement from the White House three years ago. His mail is more voluminous, he is seeing more callers, he is writing more, his spirits are better, and with the gradual improvement in his health that has taken place in the last year, he is taking a keener interest in the affairs of his party than is generally realized. His friends point with some significance to the fact that this renewed interest and activity is coincident with the crystallization of party plans and strategy for the coming political fight.

Washington, Jan. 8 (I.N.S.).—The Senate Agriculture Committee today adopted a favorable report on a resolution by Senator Ladd, Republican, of North Dakota, ordering Secretary of Agriculture Wallace to investigate activities of grain speculators in boards of trade throughout the country.

The resolution charged that boards of trade have opposed the price of wheat by trying "to bear the market"; that the grain market has been depressed by short selling and that grain prices have been "held materially below a level warranted by legitimate supply and demand conditions."

TWO WOMEN AND ONE MAN IN BROCKTON MATRIMONIAL MIXUP

3 WEDDINGS, NO DIVORCE IN PROBLEM

Double Annulment Suits Figure in Most Complicated Affair on Record

Brockton, Jan. 8.—A matrimonial mix-up in which there are two women, one man, three marriages, no divorces and two petitions for annulment, has presented such a problem as the Probate Court of Plymouth County never has known before and which, Brockton attorneys declare, probably is without a parallel in the recent history of Massachusetts.

The story can be told best in four short chapters:

I

The time was late in 1922; the place, a cottage at Buzzard's Bay; the girl, Esther Whitcomb Ramsdell, who was leaving Jim Ramsdell forever.

At the door she halted a minute, her hand upon the knob.

"I'm not coming back," she said. "I never want to see you again, and the first thing tomorrow morning I shall see a lawyer and start proceedings for a divorce."

The action was changed by James Prescott Ramsdell's laughter. "Divorce!" he jeered, "divorce! That's a hot one. "I married another woman seven years before I ever laid and I were never divorced."

II

Mrs. Ramsdell has been telling Judge Loyed E. Chamberlain all about it in the Plymouth County Probate Court, where she asks an annulment of the marriage.

"It was even as he said," she declared. "On the records at the City Hall, here in Brockton, I found that my James Prescott Ramsdell was married on August 2, 1906, to Sarah J. Pittsley. The marriage was performed by a Justice of the Peace. And there is no record of their divorce anywhere in Massachusetts.

"Ramsdell and I were married on July 5, 1913, in Portland, Me. He selected Portland because, as he explained, there was no requirement there at that time of a five-day notice of intention."

III

The petition for annulment took a dramatic turn when Judge D. D. Sullivan, counsel for Esther Whitcomb Ramsdell, called as a witness Attorney Luke F. Kelley, who, it appears, is James Prescott Ramsdell's adviser.

According to his own lawyer, Ramsdell has before the Barnstable County Probate Court at this term, a petition for annulment exactly like Mrs. Ramsdell's, except that he wants his previous marriage to Sarah J. Pittsley annulled.

"I wonder, Mr. Kelley," said Judge Chamberlain, "if your client is fully aware of the snare into which he appears to be walking?"

"I don't believe he is," replied Attorney Kelley, "or perhaps there really isn't a snare there, your Honor. The Pittsley woman, I am told, had herself been married before and we can find no record of any divorce. My client was a boy when he married her and in the spirit of youth appears to have assumed that everything was quite all right."

IV

"Well," decided Judge Chamberlain, "the issue before me here is whether or not Ramsdell was a free agent when he entered into the marriage contract with Esther Whitcomb, the petitioner. If he was actually single at the time, that is one matter; if, on the other hand, he was legally married to the Pittsley woman, that will put a different light on the subject. I shall await the decision of the Barnstable Court."

The case has been continued for two weeks.

Promoter of Theatrical Company Accused of Passing Bogus Checks

Lancaster, Pa., Jan. 8.—Albert S. Fish, former manager of a theatrical stock company and former partner of Leonard Wood, Jr., in the theatrical business, was unable to obtain bail today after spending the night in the county jail on a charge of passing fraudulent checks. After the first complaint had been entered, a number of other persons started to file complaints.

Wood was associated with Fish for some time here, but left about a month ago, since which time Fish has been trying to reorganize the company. Fish is said to have been a vice-president of an oil concern in which Wood was interested.

Fish, it was stated by the police, passed a number of checks in payment of expenses at a local theatre, depending on the receipts from recent shows to pay bills. The patronage was small and he was unable to meet the demands.

BIG DOCK BLAZE RUINS LONDON WAREHOUSES

Heavy Property Loss Caused by City's Most Serious Fire in Many Years

London, Jan. 8.—One of the biggest fires London has seen in years broke out today in the neighborhood of the West India docks. The flames swept warehouses stored with rubber, oil and similar inflammables, causing a tremendous blaze.

Firemen battled the flames with the aid of seventy engines.

The narrow streets in the fire-swept area, about four acres in extent, were running several feet deep with water, much of which was vaporized by the intense heat. No casualties have been reported, but the property loss represents a big figure.

AMERICAN OIL FIELDS SEIZED BY MEXICANS

Rebels Shut Off Supplies, Says Statement From New York Office of Company

Brownsville, Tex., Jan. 8.—Four bandits held up and robbed D. A. Tilley, paymaster of the Caoalilas Pipe Line Co., of 7,500 pesos, according to reports received here today from Tampico.

New York, Jan. 8.—Officers of the Pan-American Petroleum & Transport Company today announced that the Mexican rebels had taken possession of its fields at Tierra Blanca and Chapapote Nunez.

Wells and pipe lines have been shut down, the statement said, and no oil is coming through from those fields.

The statement said that the revolutionists activities are causing the Pan-American Company the loss of between 35,000 and 40,000 barrels of oil daily. It added that the operations of the rebels in the oil fields were spreading.

Mexican Army to Attack Vera Cruz

Mexico City, Jan. 8 (I.N.S.).—More than 10,000 federal troops are being massed upon the southeastern battle front for an advance upon Vera Cruz, the rebel stronghold.

War Secretary Serrano said today: "It is regarded as a certainty that the federal troops under General Eugenio Martinez will advance upon Vera Cruz without interference. The number and quality of the troops constitute the guarantee upon which this solemn assertion is made."

The campaign against the rebels at Vera Cruz and at Guadalajara are expected to be the last of the revolution.

Serrano also is confident Guadalajara will fall. The advance upon that city will begin within forty-eight hours," he said.

It is conceded the rebel army in the Jalisco sector is the strongest on the revolutionary side. General Estrada is an able leader and has about 6,000 well equipped soldiers.

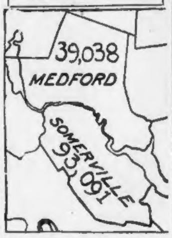
Proposed New City



SUBURBS IN MERGER PLAN
Map shows how Somerville and Medford could easily be merged into the one big city proposed by Somerville's new Mayor. The merger would give Somerville a population of 132,129, making it the third largest city in the State.

SOMERVILLE 3D LARGEST CITY IF MERGER WINS

Annexation to Medford Would Make It Outrank Springfield in Population

Should the proposed merger of the cities of Somerville and Medford into one municipality be carried out, as has been suggested by Mayor John M. Webster of Somerville, the resulting city would rank third in population in the State.

Boston with a population of 736,-060 and Worcester with a population of 179,754 were the only cities that would have exceeded the combined population when the census was taken.

Springfield, in 1920, had a population of 129,614, and New Bedford 121,217.

The plan as advanced by Mayor Webster is that the two cities combine under the name of Somerford, and he suggests that a committee of 100 be appointed from representative citizens of both communities to work out the project.

FORMER SOMERVILLE RESIDENT IS DEAD

Frank A. Volk, a native of Somerville and for the past thirty years a machinist employed by the Pennsylvania Railroad at Altoona, Penn., died at his home of pneumonia. He was fifty-three years old and is survived by his wife and two brothers, Joseph Volk of the circulation department of the Boston American and William Volk, also of Boston. Interment was made in Altoona.

WARNS BRITISH LABOR PARTY OF FOES

Social Democratic Manifesto Sees Hard Road for Workers' Program in Parliament

London, Jan. 8.—The Social Democratic Federation, affiliated with the Labor party, in a manifesto today points out that if Labor takes office it will be impossible for the new government to give effect to the program upon which the last appeal of the Labor party to the electors was made, seeing that its membership in the House of Commons is 192 against 422 Anti-Labor.

The manifesto enjoins the Labor party that any amendment offered by the party in connection with the address in reply to the speech from the throne should indicate the Labor party's program without reservation or qualification. In the event of the Liberals refusing to support such an amendment, the manifesto says, the Labor party would be entitled to exercise freedom of action regarding any subsequent amendment brought in by the Liberals.

The House of Commons reconvened today and unanimously re-elected John Henry Whitley as Speaker. Reorganization routine will occupy the rest of this week.

BOK PEACE PLAN IS RIDICULED BY SENATORS

RIDICULED IN SENATE.

The "peace plan" proved to be a dud when it hit the Senate.

It became a target for ridicule among men of all parties. Even members who supported Woodrow Wilson in his original League of Nations enterprise failed to demonstrate any enthusiasm over its appearance.

Senators who fought the League and are still opposing League entanglements were harsh in their discussion of it. Not more than half-dozen of the entire ninety-six members could be found to say a word in support of it.

The general opinion of the Bok plan appeared to be that it was propaganda and that the time never will come when the Senate will be required to pay serious attention to it, except in the direction of finding out who is back of it, and who is promoting it.

Senator Lodge of Massachusetts, who led the Republican fight against the Wilson league plan, said:

"They are paying $100,000 for it; just think of it! I have no doubt that any of our boys in the press gallery could have written one just as good for $100 or less."

Senator Moses, bitter ender in the league fight, also paid the Bok plan a humorous compliment, saying:

"The mountain labored and brought forth a mouse; and lo! it was the same mouse we caught in a trap in 1920."

Senator Brandegee, another opponent of the league, said:

"Before I make up my mind I want to know what it is. It fills columns in the newspapers, but it looks to me like the same old league."

Senator Borah, also an irreconcilable, said:

"It is the same old League of Nations, pure and simple. We may have to go through another league fight, but the country will understand that this is just a new scheme for the same old league."

Senator Willis, Republican, of Ohio, declared:

"I am against any peace or other plan that contemplates our entry into the League of Nations. I favor a world court if it can be divorced from the league."

Senator Ashurst, Democrat, of Arizona, who supported the Wilson league, was unsparing in his criticism. He said:

CALLS PLAN "CHILDISH."

"The Bok peace plan was fathered by those who have been asleep since 1920. It is perfectly childish, and if it were not so ludicrous it would be vicious. And look over the list of judges! It would not be expected that they would bring in a plan that would be a verdict of conviction of themselves. They are all the same old league crowd."

Senator Jones of New Mexico and Senator Sheppard of Texas were among the few who believed some good might come out of the Bok proposal. Both said they thought it a step in the right direction.

Dye, field secretary for the board of missions, has wired the general headquarters of the Christian Church at St. Louis asking that immediate efforts be made to get in touch with the party.

AN OPEN LETTER TO WOMEN

Tells of Mrs. Vogel's Terrible Suffering and how she was Restored to Health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Detroit, Michigan.—"My troubles were severe pains in my back and terrible bearing-down pains in my right side, also headaches and sleepless nights. I first began having troubles when I was 15, and they have increased as I grew older. A little booklet was left at my door, and I read what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done for women and decided to try it. After the first week I could go to sleep every night and I stopped having that nervous feeling and got a better appetite. The doctor had always said that an operation was the only thing that would help me, but I never had any faith in an operation. Since the Vegetable Compound has started helping me I do not suffer the severe pains, feel stronger, and am able to do my own work. I am more than glad to tell my friends that it helps where other medicines have failed."—Mrs. Gus Vogel, 6608 Pelouse St., Detroit, Michigan.

22,000 Plans for Bok Award Read by 22 Girl Clerks; 18,000 from "Nuts"

By WESLEY HAMER

The American has learned from an unquestioned source the method employed in selecting the winner in the "contest" for the $100,000 Bok award for the best plan for world peace.

Plans were received from about 22,000 persons.

Of this total, 18,000 were eliminated either because they were "nut" plans or because they failed to mention or attacked the League of Nations.

"Nut" plans offered a wide variety. Among those classified under this head were plans which suggested birth control as a means of bringing about permanent world peace; a number, supposedly from religious extremists, which suggested that universal prayer, at a given hour and date, would accomplish a like result; and still others which suggested concentrated thought.

READ BY YOUNG WOMEN.

Obviously the seven members of the jury of award—Elihu Root, chairman; General James Guthrie Harbord, Edward M. House, Ellen Fitz Pendleton, Roscoe Pound, William Allen White and Brand Whitlock—could not be expected to read all of the 22,000 plans submitted, or even a majority which remained after the "nut" plans were eliminated.

All of the plans, therefore, were read by a group of young women employed at the office of the American World Peace Contest, and the process of elimination was applied rigorously.

Thousands of the plans were filed in the waste paper basket after a cursory reading.

The plans attacking the League of Nations were put aside as "unavailable."

Those which failed to mention the League of Nations similarly were shelved.

4,000 HELD "AVAILABLE."

The four thousand plans which recommended adoption of the League of Nations, with or without reservations, were read by the young women employed at the No. 342 Madison avenue headquarters of the contest. There are twenty-two such employes, all bright young women.

At their head is Miss Esther Everett Lape, a comely brunette who is said to have been a magazine writer before attempting the task of deciding this world peace contest.

The four thousand "available" plans were read with some care by the young ladies under Miss Lape's charge. From the four thousand several hundred were reduced to digests of, say, about five hundred words. As it appears on the ballot, which is to be used generally in voting on its acceptability, it is contained in about two hundred words.

The digests were then submitted to members of the jury. It is alleged that at least one member of the jury—Brand Whitlock of Toledo, former Minister to Belgium—had no opportunity to read any of the digests or plans. Whether all the other members of the jury read the digests could not be ascertained.

Frank Hendrick, lawyer and author, is the man who makes the charge that one member of the jury had no chance to read any of the plans. He declares this one member was absent throughout consideration of the plans by the jury. Mr. Whitlock is the one member who was absent.

Mr. Hendrick, incidentally, in a letter to Edward W. Bok, charged that the award of the prize seemed unfair, and besought Mr. Bok to institute a rigid inquiry as to what influences were exerted to induce the Root committee to bestow the prize on an advocate of League of Nations.

SECRETARIES AT WORK.

Those members of the jury who did read the digests of the plans that survived the process of elimination as applied by the smart young women at the contest headquarters, did so in their leisure moments, after business hours.

One member of the jury said that he devoted many evening hours to reading the digests over a period of two weeks. Others, it was intimated, had their secretaries do the reading for them.

The name of the winner in the contest will not be made public until after the public balloting has been closed. He will then receive half the prize, $50,000. He is assured of this $50,000, whether his plan is approved or disapproved by the voters. If the plan is disapproved, he is apt to lose the second $50,000. The decision is up to the jury.

The conditions are somewhat elastic, providing that the second installment is to be paid "if or when" the United States Senate adopts the plan, or "if or when" a sufficient volume of public approval of the plan has been shown.

The payment of the first $50,000 is to be made publicly, the time and place to be decided on later.

The name of the winner is to be kept secret, lest mention of his name should influence the voting. It is considered that if the winner happens to be a person of great prominence, his name might affect the voting. It is a natural conclusion, therefore, that the winner is a person of prominence.

There is disappointment, of course, among the members of the jury that only 22,000 plans were received from a public that includes so many persons quite capable of writing acceptable plans for anything that might be desired, the number mounting into the hundreds of thousands.

With the elimination of the "nut" offerings, the sane plans were brought down to a much less figure than the 23,000 mentioned.

BALLOTING IN PROGRESS.

The balloting is now in progress, and the ballots will pass through the hands of the same bright young women who judged the plans and applied the process of elimination.

The voting ballot will be published in 7,000 weekly newspapers, with an estimated circulation of 15,000,000, and 400 magazines, with an estimated circulation of 5,000,000, a total of 20,000,000.

The voting, which is to be conducted not only through the newspapers and magazines, but also through the agency of ballot boxes placed in department stores, banks and other institutions, will continue throughout January. A dead line will be fixed in February for the final balloting.

League Officials Are Pleased with Bok Peace Plan

Geneva, Jan. 8 (A.P.).—The proposals contained in the Bok peace award created immense satisfaction in League of Nations' circles here and, basing their views upon a somewhat meagre summary of the project telephoned from Paris, league officials said the plan as outlined constituted a tremendous contribution to world peace and co-operation.

In the absence of the full text of the plan, officials were wary in committing the league in any way, but they seemed to have received the impression that adoption of the American plan would be tantamount to the United States becoming an associate member of the League of Nations.

Judge Clarke Says Plan "Opens Door to League"

New York, Jan. 8.—Friends of the League of Nations Non-Partisan Association were urged to support the winning Bok peace prize plan in a statement made public today by the organization's president, former Justice John H. Clarke, and the president of its council, George W. Wickersham.

Justice Clarke, in an accessory statement, declared that, while the plan was not acceptable as a substitute for the program of the association, it opened the door for entrance to the League.

The association's statement said, in part:

"The proposed extension of American co-operation with the League of Nations would constitute a clear advance toward achievement of the desire of this association that the United States become a member of the League of Nations on terms 'consistent with our national constitution and consonant with the dignity and honor, moral responsibility and power of the Republic.'"

NEGRO SEIZED IN HAMMER MURDER

Found Hiding in Cellar of Lowell House Where Man Was Murdered

Lowell, Jan. 8.—Albert Williams, alias Albert Brown, colored, was arrested in the cellar of his lodging house here, charged with the hammer murder of Toris Torizian, proprietor of the house, following an altercation.

Torizian was found terribly mutilated with a blood-spattered hammer and a broken axe beside his body. Mrs. Torizian told police Williams had tried to borrow a claw hammer from her, but that she had refused him. Later she told police she tried the door of Williams' room and found it locked.

Williams denied the killing, when officers found him after a several hours' search of the house, hiding under a pile of bags in the cellar. He said some friends who called on him did the killing, but he could not name them. He was unable to give police a coherent account of the trouble.

ASSERTS RAW FOOD CURFD PARALYSIS

Cincinnati, O., Jan. 8.—Attending the annual convention of the American Academy of Applied Dental Science here is Dr. St. Louis Estes of Chicago, president of the Raw Food Health and Psychological Club, which has 66,000 members. Dr. Estes founded the club after he had recovered from paralysis fifteen years ago with a diet of raw food, he told the delegates. Dr. E. V McCullom, professor of chemical hygiene,* Johns Hopkins University, said inhabitants of Asiatic deserts and Oriental flood lands have a more satisfactory diet than Americans who live where everything grows. To attain more perfect nutrition, he advised the eating of more vegetables with edible leaves, the food of the Oriental.

WOLVES RETURN TO TOWN AFTER 60 YEARS

Elizabethtown, N. Y., Jan. 8.—Wolves which more than sixty years ago infested the woods at the head of Lincoln pond appear to have returned to their former hunting ground. Several times recently residents have reported seeing what apparently were tracks made by wolves following the trail of deer. Not since January, 1861, have the animals been known to visit the section.

FORBES PLANS SHARP REPLY TO O'RYAN

Former Head of Veterans' Bureau Ready to Answer Report of Investigators

Colonel Charles R. Forbes is preparing to answer his accusers. At the home of his sister, Mrs. Mary Judkins, No. 132 Colonial road, Brighton, Colonel Forbes said he had read the newspaper accounts of the report of Major-General John F. O'Ryan of New York, general counsel of the Senate Veterans' Committee, which investigated the conduct of the Veterans' Bureau with Forbes as director. The report charged Forbes with being the "leading actor in an established conspiracy to defraud the government."

"I am preparing a counter-statement and will make it public within a few days," said Colonel Forbes.

Rochester, Minn.—W. A. Winburn, president of Central of Georgia Railway and a prominent citizen of the South, died in a hospital here today. He was sixty years old.

HAD ECZEMA BADLY 6 MONTHS

On Head, Face and Back. Burned All The Time. Cuticura Heals.

"I had eczema badly for six months. It broke out on my head, face and back, and my face looked terribly. It burned all the time and my hair fell out and became very dry. I used many remedies but none of them relieved me until I began using Cuticura Soap and Ointment. After using them a week I could see a great improvement. I continued the treatment and in a short time I was completely healed." (Signed) Mrs. S. A. Coffin, 42 St. James St., Roxbury, Mass., July 17, 1923.

These fragrant emollients are all you need for all toilet purposes. Soap to cleanse and purify, Ointment to soothe and heal, Talcum to powder and perfume.

CLONIE TAIT AND GRADWELL CLASH IN BIG BATTLE TONIGHT

CANADIAN RIVAL FOR LEONARD

By JACK CONWAY

There will be ring action tonight.

All of which is pleasing news for men with red blood in their veins and a yearning desire to break loose from the family fireside.

Clonie Tait, Canadian lightweight champion, and Willie Gradwell of Somerville will produce the spectacular stuff when they collide in a ten-round skirmish at the Armory A. A.'s show at the Grand Opera House.

It is the opening boxing show of 1924 for Boston fans. As it will be the first opportunity fistic followers hereabouts have had to cheer the knights of the padded gloves since Wilson and McCarthy battled on December 18, it is expected that a capacity crowd will be on hand to witness festivities.

It will be the second meeting between Tait and Gradwell, two of the foremost lightweights in this country. When this pair met at the Arena last Summer, the decision went to the Canadian champion after ten rounds of whirlwind milling.

GRADWELL HAS REPEATED RUGGED OPPOSITION.

Since that engagement, Gradwell has taken part in eight contests. He has not lost a single decision and is of the opinion he will add Tait to his list of victims this p. m.

Those of you who have never seen Tait in action will be thrilled by his amazing speed, skill and punching power. He is one of the best lightweights this writer has seen in recent years. He looms forth as the most dangerous contender for Benny Leonard's title.

Nate Goldman, conqueror of Lew Tendler, cannot very well be considered a candidate for a tussle with Leonard as he scales 140 pounds. As he is still young and growing, he will probably be a menace to Welterweight Champion Mickey Walker by next Summer.

Tait, while a great boxer, is also a terrific puncher. It will take such a combination to knock Leonard from his lofty position as ruler of his boxing class.

Gradwell has the class and experience to give Tait a furious engagement. The Somerville youth recently furnished the fans a rollicking battle when he came back after two knockdowns and won over Bobby Barrett of Philadelphia.

There will also be three eights. Joe Donovan of Dorchester will battle Tommy Clayton of the West End. Lefty Williams of Lowell will oppose Willie Rose of Montreal, while Steve Adams of Chicago will clash with Ray Rose of California.

VILLA WISELY REFUSES TO BATTLE GENARO

Pancho Villa, world's flyweight champion, wisely refuse to meet Frankie Genaro, American flyweight king who has two judges' decisions and one popular decision to his credit over the bobbing Filipino. This is excellent judgment on Villa's part. There is little question about Genaro's ability to win over Villa.

Phil Bernstein, Genaro's manager, who is in Boston with Clonie Tait, declares Villa has refused an offer of $50,000 to defend his title against the American flyweight champion. Tex Rickard was anxious to stage the match at Madison Square Garden. Tex figured such a ring classic would draw a gate of $150,000.

GENARO HAS ALWAYS HAD VILLA'S NUMBER.

Genaro first tackled Villa in Newark. The popular decision went to the little New York Italian. Villa claimed his defeat was due to the fact he was not acclimated. Later the two men clashed at Ebbetts Field, Brooklyn, in a decision match. And once more Villa finished out front.

Genaro then received the first of a series of bad breaks as far as championships are concerned. Villa, the defeated man, instead of Genaro, was pitted against Johnny Buff, American flyweight champion. Buff had previously lost his bantamweight crown to Joe Lynch. He was suffering from gland trouble and was an easy victim for Villa. For a time the Filipino succeeded in dodging Genaro. Finally Villa was matched to battle Jimmy Wilde for the world's flyweight championship. This match was assailed on the ground that Genaro was the logical opponent for the dapper Welshman.

This forced Villa to tackle Genaro. They battled over the fifteen round route in New York. And for the third time Genaro won.

Tom O'Rourke, who had signed the Villa-Wilde bout, made an effort to substitute Genaro for the Filipino. Frank Churchill, Villa's manager, threatened to take the matter to court unless O'Rourke abided by the terms of his original contract. The result was O'Rourke staged the Villa-Wilde bout. It proved a financial fizzle on account of the agitation over Genaro. Villa won by a knockout. Genaro would have done as much as Wilde was merely a shell of his former self.

VILLA MUST BOX GENARO OR BE SUSPENDED.

This writer had seen Wilde when he was at the top of his fighting form. The courageous veteran we saw lose to Villa was only 25 per cent. as good a fighter as Wilde was when he was supreme in his boxing division.

Unless Villa agree to meet Genaro within a few months, the flyweight champion will probably be suspended in New York State. This will deprive him of one of his big sources of revenue.

Jack Conway Picks Tait to Defeat Gradwell

Another boxing year.

New opportunities for success, many chances for failure

Jack Conway, Boston American boxing editor and holder of the world's record for picking winners, has named two straight winners this year and intends to keep on picking 'em right. Possibly he may even surpass his amazing record of 1923 when he named 155 winners out of a possible 173 for an average of .857.

Jack has the following to say about the Armory A. A. show tonight:

"Clonie Tait, who battles Willie Gradwell, may be the next lightweight champion. He has all the assets that go to make a great fighter. We are pi king him to win over Gradwell desp''e the fact the Somerville youth has not lost a decision in his last eight starts.'

Jack's mark for this year is two wins out of two selections. Not too bad.

OLYMPIC HOCKEY TEAM GETS BIG SEND-OFF

Hundreds will be at the Back Bay station at midnight to give the United States Olympic hockey team a rousing send off as they will entrain for New York from where they will sail tomorrow noon for France, where they will compete for Olympic hockey honors.

Leo Hughes

As a farewell public appearance the Olympic boys will have their second whack at the Minneapolis team tonight at the Arena.

There is doubt that La Croix will be able to take his place in the net because of an infected foot caused when he stepped on a nail. However, Art Langley is ready to fill the berth, so that the Olympic team need have no worry about that position.

Boston fans have seen big "Taffy" Abel in action and like the St. Paul man immensely. Abel saw the Canadian Olympic team beaten by the Canadian Soo team last week. He says the Canadians play aggressive hockey, check hard and body sturdily.

Abel says the United States team has the fastest skaters. So that if America and Canada will meet in the finals at the Olympics the Yankees should have an excellent chance to win.

The United States Hockey League game tomorrow night between the Boston Hockey Club and the Maple A. A. is expected to furnish one of the keenest battles of the season.

Ed. Garrity

Frank Storey gives the Maples goal strength. Storey takes hockey seriously now, and ranks with the best. In front of Storey is big Gordon McKay from the Aura Lees, a dashing 200 pounder.

He is flanked by Ike Fisher who played with the New York Canadian Club last year. Then for defence replacement the Maples have Ed Garrity, popular leader of the last year's Boston College sextet.

This forward line defeated the Princeton regulars 3 to 0 in a scrimmage.

For forward line replacements, Manager Sheridan has Dunc Chisholm from Antigonish, Ernie Mosher from Halifax and Roddie McDonald from Antigonish.

That game is part of the doubleheader. Harvard will play its annual game with Technology.

The B. A. A.-New Haven game Friday night promises some rich competition. The Unicorn will make its first appearance with its new makeup

FOOTBALL'S TOO SEVERE FOR CARPENTIER

Nantes, France, Jan. 8.—Georges Carpentier found rugby football more strenuous than fighting when he essayed a comeback on the football field.

Georges Carpentier

He was completely winded at the end of ten minutes' play and appeared entirely out of form. His team lost, 28 to 3.

Georges has gained ten or twelve pounds since his last appearance in the ring, against Joe Beckett, and most of the excess avoirdupois is around the waist. In the opinion of experts, he must undergo some serious training if he is to make any sort of showing in America.

DORCHESTER POST TO HOLD AMATEUR SHOW

The Dorchester Post, No. 498 Veterans Foreign Wars, will hold another amateur boxing tournament tonight at Ruggles Hall, Ruggles and Washington streets, Roxbury, at 8 o'clock.

Geo. Withington

A well balanced card of bouts have been arranged in five different classes, 118, 126, 135, 147 and heavyweight.

Peter O'Hara is in charge of entries and will hold them open until post time.

George Withington is in charge of the general committee on athletic activities and expects to give the post members and their friends plenty of action during the indoor season.

NO REINSTATEMENT FOR DUTCH LEONARD

Chicago, Jan. 8.—"Dutch" Leonard, former pitcher of the Red Sox, was denied reinstatement by Commissioner Landis.

Leonard refused to report to Detroit in 1922, and jumped to the San Joaquin Valley League, on the Pacific Coast, in which numerous ineligibles played.

GERMAN RING STAR UNDER GIBSON WING

New York, Jan. 8.—Billy Gibson's string of champions has been reinforced by the addition of Kurt Prenzel, welter and middleweight title holder of Central Europe.

WALKER READY FOR VICTOR OF C. A. C. BOUT

A welterweight championship bout now looms on the fistic horizon for Boston fans and Jack Bulger, manager of Champion Mickey Walker agreed over the long distance telephone to meet the winner of the George Ward and Pete Latzo fight at Mechanics Building next Thursday night.

Mickey Walker

Walker has met both of these boxers in New Jersey and the results were unsatisfactory. Now he is about ready to take either of them on for a decision fight.

A bout between either of these boys and Walker would prove one of the sweetest fistic morsels that Boston has been treated to in many moons. Each boxer is a contender for the title and each is anxious for a meeting the champion to a decision.

"If I ever get another chance with Walker," said Latzo recently, "I will send him down for keeps. I sent him to the mat in the last fight we had but he managed to get through, the sounding of the bell helping him out of his difficulties."

Latzo is one of the mightiest hitters among the welterweights. Boston fans saw him send Paul Doyle sprawling to the canvas in his only appearance in this city. He won the decision in that bout. He has improved greatly since then and Hub fans will see one of the finest fighting machines in action in Latzo when he faces Ward Thursday night.

On account of his punching ability, Latzo today is one of the most feared welterweights in the country.

Both Latzo and Ward are expected to arrive in Boston today. They are anxious to complete their training in this city. This will give the fans an opportunity of seeing them in action before they meet at Mechanics Building.

Boston has seen a number of excellent welterweight matches in the past, but never a better bout than this one. Both boys are known here and their ability is respected. For this reason, Hub fans are flocking to the office of the Commercial Club, Room 8, No. 28 School street, for reservations.

The semi-final between Joe Pangraze and Chick Cavanaugh is causing considerable talk in fistic circles while two good preliminaries already have been arranged which will provide considerable action.

275 Teams Entered for Hearst Trophy Shoot

With the time limit for the acceptance of entries to the Reserve Officers' Training Corps rifle competition for the William Randolph Hearst trophies set at January 15, Major-General Harry Hale of the Sixth Corps Area, U. S. A., today reported the receipt of additional formal applications from all sections of the United States and possessions.

The entries on hand in the office of Lieutenant-Colonel Robert H. Sillman, official referee of the shoot, located in the Chicago district, up to January 1, 1924, total 120 teams from 87 different colleges and universities; 50 teams from 44 military academies and 105 teams from 84 high schools.

An illustration of the far-reaching interest in the matches is the entry of competing teams from the College of Agricultural and Mechanical Arts of Mayaguez, Porto Rico, and the Kamehameha School of Honolulu Hawaii.

Olympic Team Will Set Out for Gay Paree on June 16

New York, Jan. 8.—Members of the American Olympic team will arrive in France nearly two weeks in advance of the official opening of the Olympic games on July 5. The Olympic committee decided to change the date of departure from June 14 to 16, because it conflicted with the holding of the final tryouts.

The entire first-class cabin accommodations of the steamer America have been reserved for 300 athletes and the coaches, trainers, officials, newspapermen and friends who will accompany the team.

BOSTON MAJOR LEAGUE CLUBS READY TO GRAB DISCARDS

ALSO TRAIL STARS OF MINORS

By NICK FLATLEY

Boston baseball owners, having wisely decided to keep all contractual troubles to themselves, haven't a great deal to say these days, though they are busier than any magnates have been hereabouts since Noah signed up his trans-Atlantic team.

The arrival of Christy Mathewson and Judge Fuchs of the Braves completed the attendance of local officials, and from now until the Spring trip starts some seven weeks hence, the fountain pens will work overtime on contracts, checks and things like that.

Pres. Mathewson

Both clubs, we are informed, are still trailing sundry and various minor league satellites, and also angling for big leaguers who may be lopped off the lists of the wealthy clubs to make way for some of the new expensive luminaries you read about every day. And one is inclined to believe such statements now.

Jim Price, new Sox secretary, shatters modern custom entirely by dropping down town every now and then; he even invades the newspaper offices, which would have been considered a Red Sox sacrilege not so long since. But times have changed at the Fenway. Bobby Quinn, a real baseball president, is on the job all the time, and admits it's going to be his own fault if interest in the pastime isn't stirred up once more in this sector.

While here President Matty will call the annual meeting of the Braves' directors and officers. These boys have a lot to talk about. They assimilated a good, big licking last season without any signs of a whimper. They took a lot of things for granted when they collected the ball club that didn't quite pan out as expected. But they never chirped, and seem determined to profit by the mistakes of the past, and proceed to hoist themselves somewhere.

* * *

By purchasing Outfielder Combs from Louisville, the Yankees dispelled the notion that the club bankroll has been locked up. Little Miller Huggins was supposed to be in the market for all high-priced stars there were.

Judge Fuchs

When the Reds grabbed Jakie May from Vernon, and the Giants got Wayland Dean from Louisville, the critics and sages began to sit up and take notice.

Each of the above-mentioned boys was to be had for approximately $50,000, and it didn't seem like the Ruppert policy to hesitate at spending that much jack.

The answer was that Mister Huggins evidently wasn't looking for pitchers. He has enough of them, Lord knows, and they're sufficiently young to be good for a year or two more, the whole kaboodle of them. Hug did want an outfielder, though, and didn't mind spending plenty to get him.

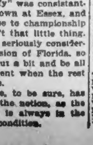
Combs, admittedly the best of the minor league prospects in the land, was in much demand, but the price scared off most of the bidders. Chances are that the Yanks gave something like $25,000 for him in real, regular money, as well as some good player material. One of the birds to go back in the deal is our old friend, Elmer Smith, who made a flock of pinch hitting records as Yank relief man last Summer.

Miller Huggins

Elmer is still good enough to linger in quite a few large league gardens, and will undoubtedly come back before the campaign gets going. He's far from the worst fielder in the world, and undoubtedly one of the most dangerous hitters against right handers tehre happens to be.

* * *

John Stuffy McInnis is invading the golf schools, now that snow has locked up the courses down Manchester way. The eminent first baseman manages to keep himself busy and in shape between the links pastime and basketball coaching.



Stuffy McInnis

Stuffy is a really good golfer now, and getting better all the time. When he's ready to depart from baseball, he will be able to beat most of the pros at golf, if he cares to turn his attention that way.

Last Fall "Stuffy" was consistantly under eighty down at Essex, and that's mighty close to championship shooting, if it isn't that little thing. Mister McInnis is seriously considering an early invasion of Florida, so that he can hoil out a bit and be all ready for excitement when the rest of the boys arrive.

The golfing lure, to be sure, has a lot to do with the notion, as the quiet young man is always in the pink of physical condition.

ALBRIGHT SURE HE CAN BALK HEADLOCK

Jack Albright, the man with the thousand holds, says he has a block for the headlocks applied by Joe Alverez. Jack is a close student of the game and has watched the big fellow from Panama work on three different occasions. His final decision is the headlock won't work on him. As Jack expressed it: "I don't think my head will fit a headlock. I have watched this fellow closely and I am of the opinion thatI can outfigure him. The experience I have had is watching him work with Stasiak and others, and I will upset the dope on Thursday night and come through with flying colors."

Alvarez, on the other hand, doesn't think anything can stop him from reaching the top. He says the fall Stasiak got on him was only an accident.

"I don't underrate Albright, either," said Joe, "but he will go the road of the others. Then give me Lewis, Stasiak and all the rest. I am in wonderful shape at present.

"When I first came to Boston I was troubled with a sore arm and a couple of boils. Now I am at my best and I want to meet them all. Should I beat Albright decisively on Thursday night, I think I am entitled to another chance at Stasiak or at any of the other topnotchers. One thing I like about the Boston fans, if you are willing to try they are with you to a man."

In the other bout of the heavies, Karl Vogel promises to spring a surprise on Ivan Linow, the Russian Lion. This match is one fall to a finish.

The curtain raiser is between Nick Bozinin, the young Greek Star who is making a bid for the Greek title, and John Carlson, the Danish light-heavyweight. All matches are to a positive finish.

STRIBLING BARRED BY MACON HIGH SCHOOL

Macon, Ga., Jan. 8.—W. L. (Young) Stribling, Macon schoolboy boxer, has been barred from attendance at Lanier High School, in Macon, and unless an arrangement can be made for the middleweight pugilist to finish his High School in this city, his father has announced that he will move either to eNwark, N. J., or Philadelphia, in the Spring.

When the boy reported for classes the principal informed him that he had been dropped, and gave too many absences as the reason.

An attack was understood to have been made on the boy in a board of education meeting several weeks ago, but no action was taken then.

The superintendent of schools said tonight that the board has not yet taken action in the matter.

Single Scissors Step in Tango Explained

This is the eighth lesson in dancing prepared by William H. O'Brien for the Boston American. In today's article the tango is taken up.

The word tango usually strikes fear into the heart of the average beginner. Visions of all kinds of intricate steps come into your mind and you give up. Do not worry, you can do many steps of the tango as well as you can waltz.

The tango lengthens the beat slightly and gives opportunity for the twisting body movement that goes with the steps and fills out the measure. To tango correctly you must have a slight body movement. Soft music is also best. But, remember, do not give a suggestive twist to the body.

We will not attempt to give you all the steps of the tango. We will limit ourselves to a few of the easiest ones. First comes the single scissors.

This begins with the halfstep. The man advances left foot as in a slide, but pauses and twists his foot slightly. At the same time he twists his partner in a half-body turn from her hips up, by means of his hold on her left shoulder. His partner brings her right foot back, as in a slide, and twists it slightly on her toes. Then with the other feet repeat, alternating for four or eight counts.

For the next movement the man crosses his left foot over and in front of his right, while the lady crosses her right foot back past her left. As they do so they bring the other foot up to "point," or even with the first foot, and then twisting, cross over to the other side. Thus the count is "step, point, twist to man's right; step, point, twist to man's left, and so on for eight counts.

This gives a swinging, graceful movement, and the bodies of the couple sway to the side opposite that in which the step is being taken. But you must always remember to cross over diagonally forward with the foot, otherwise the feet may become tangled and cause tripping. This dance step is done as easily to waltz time as to moderate foxtrot tempo.

Another lesson will appear in tomorrow's Boston American.

Negro Accused of Murder of Lowell Landlord Accuses Burney

Lowell, Jan. 8.—Albert Williams, alias "Brown," colored, charged with murdering Toris Torijian, proprietor of a lodging house at No. 33 Tyler street, pleaded not guilty in Lowell Court today and was held without bail for a hearing January 18.

Williams, who was found cringing under a pile of bags and wood in the cellar of the lodging house, several hours after Torijian had been found lying across a bed with his skull battered in by an axe and hammer, says George Burney is the murderer.

Burney is being held under $1,000 as a material witness. The bloodstained axe and hammer with which the crime was committed were found near the bed in the room where Torijian had been assaulted.

Lodgers told the police that the negro and his landlord had wrangled all afternoon over something.

Mrs. Torijian told the police that the negro had tried to borrow a clawhammer from her, but had been refused.

BRADY DEFENDS HANDLING OF BIG FORTUNE

Contest Over $75,000,000 Estate of Late Financier, A. F. Brady, Resumed

Albany, N. Y., Jan. 8.—Nicholas F. Brady of New York, one of the executors and trustees of the $75,000,000 estate of Anthony N. Bardy, financier, was the first witness called today when hearings were resumed in surrogate's court on objections to the 1919 and 1920 accounting of the estate.

He was called by counsel for Mrs. Carl Tucker and Mrs. Francis P. Garvan, daughters of Anthony Brady, and the principal objectors.

The contest between the members of the Brady family which began last Spring was resumed yesterday at a short session which was adjourned until today.

The two daughters of the financier have made objection to the accounting of their brothers, Nicholas F. and James Cox Brady, and the Central Union Trust Company of New York, executors of the estate and trustees of six trust funds into which it was divided.

They have asked that a total of more than eight million dollars be surcharged against the executors, alleging "gross negligence, wilful misconduct, speculating with and jeopardizing the trust funds."

EXPERTS JUDGE OUT-OF-TOWN BABIES

Scores of Little Tots Attend the Opening Day of Show Run by American

Babies by the score.

Big babies and little babies!

Laughing babies and some that were prone to regard the situation in a more serious vein were carried in the arms of their proud mothers to the Jordan Marsh Company's Annex today for the opening of the show for out-of-town babies being conducted by the Boston American and the Massachusetts Department of Public Health.

The show and examination of babies will continue every day from 1 to 5 p. m. for the next ten days and, during this time, it is expected that thousands of babies from every city, town and village within a radius of fifty miles of Boston will have been examined by the experts.

When the Boston American and the Boston Department of Health conducted their show and physical examination for Boston babies, in November, the success of the project was above all expectations.

EXPERTS MAKE TESTS.

In fact, the rush was so great that the examination had to be limited to Boston babies alone.

The American, however, determined that the out-of-town babies and their mothers could not be denied the advantage given the city youngsters, so arrangements were made with the State Health Department and for the next ten days the out-of-town babies have the right of way.

Each baby taken to the Jordan Marsh Company store during the examination period will be carefully examined by the medical experts in accordance with the rules of the American Medical Association. A score card will be kept for each baby, so that the mother will know how near her little one approaches to perfection.

EXAMINATIONS FREE.

In addition, experts are on hand to tell the mothers how to maintain baby's health. How to feed him properly and what kind of clothing he should wear. The ailments common to babies and those that are not so common are also discussed and mothers can question the experts to their heart's content.

Mothers should remember that the examination is open to all babies living outside the city of Boston proper. There is no charge of any kind, the examinations beng conducted by the Amercan and the State authorities jointly.

The judging starts promptly at 1 o'clock each afternoon and continues till 5.

The contest will close on January 28.

SEIZE 'TURNSTILE DODGER' IN ROBBERY

New York, Jan. 8.—Thirteen-year-old Tony Latenpa of Jersey City, known to police as "the artful dodger of the turnstiles," was arrested today following the robbery of a change booth in the Columbus Circle subway station. Tony, the police say, was the decoy in an unique scheme to rob. He would enter subway stations, dart under turnstiles, as if to evade payment of the usual nickel, and make plenty of noise, thus drawing the pursuit of the change agent. While he was being chased, two youthful confederates would help themselves to the agent's

This calls for the contribution by each of the seventy-two provinces of an airplane bearing the name of the province, while the directive committee of the Fascisti party will supply one bearing Mussolini's name. Since some of the richer provinces have already expressed their intention to supply more than one airplane it is expected that within a few months the project will provide more than 100 new aircraft.

MRS. GOULD TO WED RICH ARGENTINIAN

Boston Girl Dancer Recently Divorced From New York Millionaire

By CHOLLY KNICKERBOCKER.

New York, Jan. 8.—In these days when palatial ocean liners are, in the minds of the social elect, nothing more than mere ferryboats, and the fashionable hostess who does not cross the Atlantic at least twice a year is declasse, it is not difficult to keep in touch with the latest happenings in the ever-increasing American colony in Paris.

But, for some unexplainable reason, a very engrossing tidbit concerning Mrs. George J. Gould, has escaped the ears of the society journalists and to me will fall the honor of announcing the very important news that Mrs. Gould, Jr., will be married in the early Spring to a rich young Argentinian whose name I am not at the present writing, at liberty to divulge.

Mrs G. J. Gould, Jr.

WEDDING ROMANCE.

Several years ago, when George Gould, Jr., eloped and married Laura Carter of Boston, a pretty Miss, who eked out a livelihood teaching dancing, there was quite a hubbub in society, and George's parents, the late Mr. and Mrs. George Gould, Sr., for many months refused to extend forgiveness. "Georgie" obtained a humble position in a small Pennsylvania mill town and made good. Then his father sent for him, and with his wife and their young son, George J. Gould 3rd, they took up their residence with the late Mr. and Mrs. Gould at the Fifth avenue mansion, recently purchased by the Dowager Mrs. Vanderbilt.

After Edith Kingdon Gould sponsored her daughter-in-law socially and everyone considered the junior Goulds ideally happy, their divorce in Paris created almost as much of a sensation as did their marriage, due to the fact that it was Mr. Gould that asked for his marital freedom.

For some time Mrs. Gould, now "Mrs. Carter Gould," has had as her cavalier the young son of one of the richest families in the Argentine. They would have been married, insist the Paris gossips, months ago, had it not been for the opposition of the young man's family, which has now been overcome.

CLOSE UP STATIONS TOO EARLY, HE SAYS

On complaint of Senator William I. Hennessey of Dorchester, the department of Public Utilities today began an investigation of the early closing of the Field's Corner, Shawmut and Ashmont stations on the Shawmut branch of the New Haven. Senator Hennessey informed the department the stations are closed at 1:30 a. m., and in inclement weather passengers are compelled to wait in the open for trains.

PASTOR TO WED RICH WIDOW

Rev. Dr. A. C. Dixon, Formerly of Boston, to Marry Mrs. C. M. Alexander

The Rev. Dr. Amzi C. Dixon, internationally known religious leader and former pastor of the Ruggles Street Baptist Church, Boston, will marry Mrs. Helen Alexander of London, England, widow of Charles M. Alexander, who for quarter of a century had a world-wide reputation as an evangelist.

Dr. Dixon, who is in his seventieth year, will sail for England on Saturday and the wedding will take place in London [illegible] which the couple will return to America and live in Baltimore, where Dr. Dixon is filling the pulpit of the University Baptist Church.

Dr. Dixon's wife died several years ago and Mrs. Alexander's husband died in Birmingham, England in 1920.

It was while Dr. Dixon was serving in London at the Metropolitan Tabernacle that he became acquainted with Mrs. Alexander.

Dr. Dixon [illegible] has been active in affairs of the Baptist church [illegible] to Boston as pastor of the Ruggles Street church in 1896 and filled the pulpit for five years, quitting his charge here to take charge of the Moody church in Chicago.

While in Boston Dr. Dixon at [illegible] country-wide attention by an attack on the Christian Science church, engaging in [illegible] controversy with Mary Baker Eddy. Following his pastorate in Chicago he was in charge of the Metropolitan Tabernacle, London, until the close of the war when he returned to this country.

Mrs. Alexander is the widow of an evangelist with a reputation equally as great as the man she is to wed. The daughter of Richard Cadbury, a wealthy Quaker chocolate manufacturer of England, she inherited a great fortune but gave up a life of ease and [illegible] to travel with her husband.

She was in Boston in 1909 with her husband who was associated with the Rev. J. Wilbur Chapman in [illegible] evangelistic tour of the country.

New York, Jan. 8.—The New York Central Railroad has entered into a contract with C. D. Steele, proprietor of Briarcliff Lodge, to ship him 10,000 tons of snow from the Adirondacks at freight rates. Railroad officials, as a result, are today figuring on what the freight rates on snow in car load lots ought to be.

The snow is to be delivered before next Sunday to enable ski runners who are to participate in the Olympic games to get some practice at Briarcliff Lodge before they sail.

The shipment will be insured against loss by rain or shrinkage.

$1,840 DEAL PROBED BY POLICE

Youthful Financier Must Explain Why Money on Bond Is Not Forthcoming

Concord, N. H., Jan. 8.—Frank A. Mahoney, known in Boston, Springfield, New York and Philadelphia as the "Boy Wizard of Finance," is under bail for appearance in court Wednesday, charged with the larceny of $1,840 by conversion.

County and State authorities are investigating other transactions of the youthful financier in which investors in securities handled by him failed to realize profits.

County Solicitor [illegible] directed the arrest of the young financier.

Mahoney left high school in 1915. His business progress was frequently reported in this city. When he returned to Concord and opened an office through which he dealt in securities his business reputation was firmly established.

CUTS PLANS SHORT.

His arrest cut short plans for opening additional offices in Boston where the young financier previously did business on State street. The Concord offices have apparently been closed several days, though it was reported Mahoney maintained private office accommodations.

The first complaint entered in the courts against Mahoney charged that he sold William M. Emerson, a market gardener of Concord Plains a bond for $1,840. Emerson said the bond was worthless and that he was denied when he sought a refund of his money.

Mahoney told the county officers that his New York and Boston financial agents were attempting to straighten out a misunderstanding in the particular transaction in which Emerson was involved.

FORMED COMPANY.

An announcement is now in the mails that Mahoney has taken over the New England territory for the distribution of gilt edge securities and the new Boston offices, it is understood, were to have been the headquarters. The business is known as the Frank Mahoney [illegible] Company.

Young Mahoney's [illegible] people and [illegible] well known [illegible] the Daniel Webster Highway and the Mohawk trail and are not unknown in the Back Bay district of Boston.

LIVED IN SPLENDOR.

In recent months his numerous stock promotions failed to enrich the stockholders, but the promoter continued to live in splendor.

Gossip led to the discovery by the State Commissioner that Mahoney's permit to deal in securities within the State expired December 31 and that it has not been renewed. Mahoney is reported to have declared in his defense that he no longer maintained a business office, except for private use.

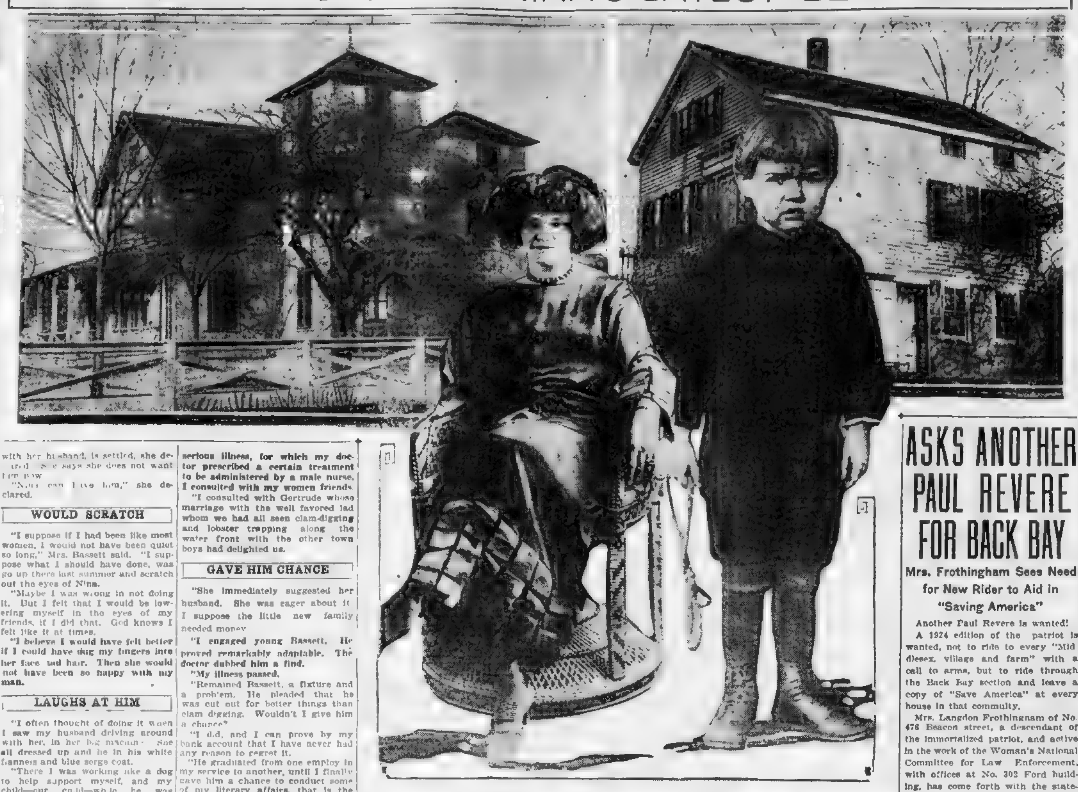
WIFE IN NINA WILCOX PUTNAM TRIANGLE TO SEEK DIVORCE

SCENES AND ACTORS IN NINA'S LATEST 'BEST SELLER'



Mrs. Nina Wilcox Putnam Sanderson and Adrian Bassett, son of her ex-clam-digger-house-painter-literary agent, Ellsworth Bassett. The building in the upper left is Mrs. Putnam's studio at Madison, Ct., where Gertrude Petri Bassett charges the love of her six-foot-four husband was stolen away by the authoress. The modest cottage of the Bassett family, where all was serene until Mrs. Putnam arrived is shown on the opposite side.

would consult her attorneys to find out why her divorce from R. J. Sanderson granted in Providence, was suddenly rescinded by the court's order.

"Nothing Left but Divorce," Says Wife

By HAROLD R. HALL.

Madison, Conn., Jan. 8.—Mrs. Gertrude Petri Bassett, who accuses Nina Wilcox Putnam Sanderson, the author, of stealing her husband, will sue for divorce, naming Nina in her action. She is considering an alienation action against the author.

After a day of fencing with reporters, the little woman whose six foot four clam digging husband is now acting as literary manager for Nina, admitted that she had secured counsel with this in view.

Just when she will start action Mrs. Bassett declares she does not know. She has engaged Edmund Zacher of New Haven, as attorney.

"There is nothing left now but divorce," she said.

Not until the trial will Mrs. Bassett reveal all the details of an all-night conference which she says was held between her, Nina and Bassett last Summer in the beautiful Summer home of the famous authoress.

PLEADED FOR HOURS

That conference Mrs. Bassett says was a [illegible] ordeal such as few women have to face in their lives."

At the conference Mrs. Bassett declares she was the object of hours of moral suasion in which her husband and the authoress tried to convert her to the philosophy of life that sanctions the giving up of one's husband, when he and another woman fall in love.

"What was said in detail will come out later when I decide on my court action. Until then what I have told will have to do."

That Mrs. Bassett is all through with her husband, is settled, she declared. She says she does not want him now.

"Nina can have him," she declared.

WOULD SCRATCH

"I suppose if I had been like most women, I would not have been quiet so long," Mrs. Bassett said. "I suppose what I should have done, was go up there last summer and scratch out the eyes of Nina.

"Maybe I was wrong in not doing it. But I felt that I would be lowering myself in the eyes of my friends, if I did that. God knows I felt like it at times.

"I believe I would have felt better if I could have dug my fingers into her face and hair. Then she would not have been so happy with my man.

LAUGHS AT HIM

"I often thought of doing it when I saw my husband driving around with her, in her big machine. She all dressed up and he in his white flannels and blue serge coat.

"There I was working like a dog to help support myself, and my child—our child—while he was sporting around to Canada and other places with the woman who wanted to steal him from me and make him her third husband.

"And now he is classed as her literary manager. He would make a better bricklayer, than that. I sent some of them back to Adrian. I have to laugh, when I think of him acting in any literary capacity.

"Nina writes wonderful stuff, I admit, but as for him selling it, or having anything to do with it—that is to laugh.

"He was a good man with the paint brush, one of the best in the town. He was also a good clam digger. He was also good at doing odd jobs. But as for managing a literary woman, well figure it out for yourself.

DAYS OF AGONY

"I often wonder what must have happened down in Nina's studio that day he went there first. You know he went there when she asked him to come down and figure on the cost of painting the place.

"He went but he did not paint the house. I guess he was too busy to think of painting.

"Anyhow that day was the great day as far as he was concerned, for he evidently made an impression that carried her off her feet. I would give a lot to know what he did there.

Nina Scoffs at Charges; Says Bassett Is Genius

New York, Jan. 8.—Arising from a sick bed to travel a thousand miles, Mrs. Nina Wilcox Putnam-Sanderson, novelist, arrived in New York and gave her version of incidents leading to events which have linked her name to the marital adventures of Ellsworth Bassett, her literary manager, and Mrs. Gertrude Petri Bassett of Madison, Ct.

She professed herself astounded to learn that Mrs Bassett, after declaring that the novelist had importuned her to relinquish her husband by divorcing him, had retained former Judge Edmund Zacher of New Haven, Ct., to press a suit for alienation of Bassett's affections against Mrs. Putnam Sanderson.

This fact was contained in dispatches today from Madison. She characterized the whole story of her midnight interview with the two Bassetts during which she is said to have asked the freedom of Bassett then her chauffeur as "malicious calumny" and gave a strange and arresting story of intrigue in the past to substantiate the phrase.

She sat on one end of a red plush sofa in the "receiving parlor" of the Victorian Hotel Netherland, the flash of her eyes glinting in the respectable gloom of the place and her very modern analysis of the situation contrasting strongly with the other century feeling of the room.

She said:

"About two years ago I had a serious illness, for which my doctor prescribed a certain treatment to be administered by a male nurse. I consulted with my women friends.

"I consulted with Gertrude whose marriage with the well favored lad whom we had all seen clam-digging and lobster trapping along the water front with the other town boys had delighted us.

GAVE HIM CHANCE

"She immediately suggested her husband. She was eager about it. I suppose the little new family needed money.

"I engaged young Bassett. He proved remarkably adaptable. The doctor dubbed him a find.

"My illness passed.

"Remained Bassett, a fixture and a problem. He pleaded that he was cut out for better things than clam digging. Wouldn't I give him a chance?

"I did, and I can prove by my bank account that I have never had any reason to regret it.

"He graduated from one employ in my service to another, until I finally gave him a chance to conduct some of my literary affairs, that is the marketing of my literary wares. He has been a marvel.

"Just one thing in proof.

IS MONEY MAKER

"A few months ago he answered in person a request from a radio concern that I give an address on dress reform. He returned from the interview with the radio people with a contract for money in his pocket.

"It is the first time on record that the radio people have ever paid a performer. Caruso sang for nothing for them. Elman fiddled for nothing. Galli-Curci sang for nothing. But I got several hundreds dollars, all because I let a Madison clam digger go after business for me."

Mrs. Putnam-Sanderson paused and the pause brought her thoughts back to the unpleasant channel of her troubles. She asked:

AGAINST DIVORCE

"How am I characterized in this thing? Remember I have not seen a paper, except some Florida imitations for weeks. I lay in my berth in the train, sick all the way from Del Rey to New York, and the porter wouldn't get me papers. And here, in the few hours since my arrival, I have had no strength to face the reading of them."

She was told that there had been the natural comment on the woman as delineated in her published works and utterances, many of which deal with divorce and domesticity.

She protested:

"But I am an enemy of divorce. I think divorce is criminal, divorce, in my mind, is the last resort. And I personally have recoiled from divorce for many months after the time when it was obviously a necessity in my own case."

To the reporter's interjection that her published utterances on divorce seemed irreconcilable with those statements, including as they do the famous interview pleading for "easier divorce" she replied:

READY TO FIGHT

"That is because you do not understand. I want easier divorce as the remedy for divorce. See how that would work out in my own case.

"I had good and sufficient reasons for divorcing Mr. R. J. Sanderson, my second husband. Long ago I knew that they existed. But, held only by my instinctive horror of divorce, I delayed.

"Then, when I knew the marital relation was untenable, I laid my plans. I wanted to do the thing decently. I applied for it on the most decent grounds I could find. My lawyers approved. I thought them competent. All I wanted was divorce, and divorce without cruelty to either party.

"Now look what has happened—my divorce rescinded—myself almost openly accused of some illegal trick which is beyond my non-legal understanding.

"Absolutely False!" Says Bassett in Florida

West Palm Beach, Fla., Jan. 8.—Ellsworth R. Bassett, business manager for Nina Wilcox Putnam Sanderson, is in her household "as her personal business representative" he said here in denying reports from Madison, Ct., quoting his wife as saying Mrs. Sanderson had sought to induce her to divorce him.

"The story is absolutely false," Mr. Bassett said.

Bassett has been staying at Mrs. Sanderson's Winter home at Delray. Mrs. Sanderson arrived in New York from there last night.

on the previous day, which was Sunday, at his home and told him or intimated proceedings were contemplated against Levenson. He said a formal hearing was never held.

Asked about the reference made to a hearing in Levenson's letter, he said the court never fixed a date for the continued hearing.

Judge Connelly recalled that Corcoran was in the court at the conference and also a woman but he could not identify Theresa Duggan as the woman. Michael J Lyons was also there, he said.

"McDonald had a great deal to say," Judge Connelly testified. "But I have no recollection he referred to the case as hold-up or blackmail."

Under cross-examination, Judge Connelly said there could have been no money settlement of the complaint and that an attempt to make such a settlement would have been a crime in itself.

According to the terms of the will, the widow, Mrs. William Shakespeare of Waltham, will receive the entire estate, valued at $6,700.

On the death of Mrs. Shakespeare, the estate is to be divided between the two sons. Shakespeare died January 4, 1924.

COAKLEY WINS

Higgins House, the settlement for the suit amounting to $35,000, which Berman paid, followed by counsel fees of $15,000 to Coakley.

HOTEL A "GOLD MINE."

In the threatened suit William J. Corcoran, then district attorney of Middlesex County, acted for the "injured" husband and procured the Higgins House registry through the help of Joseph C. Pelletier, then district attorney of Suffolk County.

Then, adds Justice Wait in his findings: "There is some outside corroboration for the testimony of Coakley, Corcoran, Gordon (Isaac Gordon, Berman's partner) and James H. Doyle (former State Senator and liquor dealer), consistent again with a skilful lie, but there is no reliable testimony to make one believe it a lie."

Daniel H. Coakley Myer Berman

Justice Wait brands the Higgins House a "gold mine"—it has since closed—and finds that Coakley was of yeoman service to Berman in arranging so that interference of the Licensing Board and police did not force the place to be closed.

The court added:

UNABLE TO FIND FRAUD.

"Fifteen thousand dollars is a large bill for the services; but the retention and the use of the Higgins House license was of great importance, and I am unable to find there was fraud, threat or prosecution, or extortion resorted to.

"Myer Berman, in the trial, though not in the allegations of the bill, claimed that Gordon, Doyle and Coakley were conspiring to drive him out of the Higgins House, and he did in fact go out in October of 1917, but the evidence does not satisfy me of any such thing.

"The only sensible explanation for falsity in the testimony of Gordon and Doyle is that they were part of a conspiracy with Coakley to despoil Myer Berman [illegible] much more reasonable to disbelieve the testimony of the Bermans, in view of the many contradictions which appear in it."

cloak rooms and thence through clouds of smoke to the street.

Forty children in the second grade had a more difficult time. This classroom is located in the basement, near where the fire started. Nuns and teachers in charge of this room hurried the children out without stopping for wraps. Several were choked by smoke and had to be assisted from the building.

Quick action prevented any more serious trouble than the wetting of children's wraps by the fire department. The alarm was turned in by George W. Le Clair, thirteen years old. The fire is thought to have started in the boys' wash room in the basement.

Another fire, in the downtown district, swept through the interior decorating establishment of W. Irving Pierce at No. 173 North Main street today and caused $20,000 damage. Two adjoining stores suffered heavy water and smoke damage.

GOODWIN WARNS OF COASTING DANGERS

Warning of the danger of coasting accidents was issued by Frank A. Goodwin, registrar of motor vehicles. "Unless extreme care is used by motorists in passing street corners where there is a grade, and unless parents and teachers do their share in impressing upon the minds of the children the dangers of the street many little lives will be crushed out," says Mr. Doodwin.

ASKS ANOTHER PAUL REVERE FOR BACK BAY

Mrs. Frothingham Sees Need for New Rider to Aid in "Saving America"

Another Paul Revere is wanted!

A 1924 edition of the patriot is wanted, not to ride to every "Middlesex, village and farm" with a call to arms, but to ride through the Back Bay section and leave a copy of "Save America" at every house in that commuity.

Mrs. Langdon Frothingham of No. 476 Beacon street, a descendant of the immortalized patriot, and active in the work of the Woman's National Committee for Law Enforcement, with offices at No. 302 Ford building, has come forth with the statement that the breaking down of the prohibition laws and the growth of general lawlessness has reached such a stage that she would welcome a second Paul Revere.

Mrs. Frothingham is active in planning for a meeting of the women of Boston to be held at the Twentieth Century Club on January 21, when plans for securing stricter law enforcement in Boston will be taken up.

The women will meet in connection with the New England Citizenship Conference to be held at that time.

"I think we need a new Paul Revere ride," said Mrs. Frothingham. "On sounding the alarm against the lawlessness, I should like to see just such a ride through the Back Bay leaving a volume of 'Save America' in every house in that community."

"Save America" is the campaign manual of the Women's National Committee for Law Enforcement.

May Be Passed Along by Baldwin to McDonald's Laborite Government

London, Jan. 8 (A.P.)—So much delay has occurred in the return by the British Dominion governments of the draft Anglo-American rum treaty that it now appears the document may not be signed before the dissolution of the present British government. The draft was sent to the overseas governments some weeks ago by mail, and no responses have been received.

Officials here repudiate the suggestion that there has been wilful delay because of the continued seizure by American authorities of British vessels suspected of rum-running while these vessels were outside the three-mile limit. It is stated that Lord Curzon, foreign secretary, has been only too anxious to bring the negotiations with Washington to fruition before Parliament met in order to save the treaty from possible attack by opponents in the House of Commons.

It is true, as Washington dispatches have stated, that the British government is disappointed over the failure of the American government to return replies to queries regarding the confiscation of the British schooner Island Home last November, and the recent seizure of the Tomoka, Muriel F. Winters and Kwasind. But it is repeated here, that these incidents will not be allowed to jeopardise the treaty extending the three mile limit.

If the treaty remains unsgnied and the Baldwin government is rejected, it will naturally have to take its chances with the new ministry and severe debate in Commons. It is believed, however, that if Ramsey MacDonald and a Labor Cabinet take office they will approve the pact, as it would mark the first progressive step of the Laborites in the field of foreign policy and win the good will of the United States.

Britain Protests Latest Seizures

Washington, Jan. 8—Seizure of the British schooner Kwasind by United States authorities at Wilmington, N. C., after the ship had put in for repairs, carrying a cargo of intoxicating liquors, has been the subject of a new inquiry filed with the State Department by the British government through its embassy here.

The action is believed to be preliminary to the filing of a formal protest.

The British inquiry was forwarded to the Treasury and Justice Departments with the request that information concerning the seizure be furnished.

Meanwhile the State Department is waiting for information from the Treasury concerning the seizure beyond the three-mile limit of the British schooners Tokoka and Island Home. Protests in these cases already have been filed by the British embassy.

IF RHEUMATIC EAT NO SWEETS

Says Glass of Jad Salts Helps to Overcome Rheumatism Acid

Rheumatism is easier to avoid than to cure, states a well-known authority. We are advised to dress warmly, keep the feet dry, avoid exposure, and above all, drink plenty of good water and avoid eating sweets of all kinds.

Rheumatism is caused by body waste and acids resulting from food fermentation. It is the function of the kidneys to filter this poison from the blood. The pores of the skin are also a means of freeing the blood of this impurity. In damp and chilly weather the skin pores are closed, thus forcing the kidneys to do double work; they become weak and sluggish and fail to eliminate this waste and acids, which keeps accumulating and circulating through the system, eventually settling in the joints and muscles, causing stiffness, soreness and pain, called rheumatism.

At the first twinge of rheumatism get from any pharmacy about four ounces of Jad Salts; put a tablespoonful in a glass of water and drink before breakfast each morning for a week. This is helpful to neutralize acidity, remove waste matter, also to stimulate the kidneys, thus often ridding the blood of rheumatic poison.

Jad Salts is inexpensive, and is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and is used with excellent results by thousands of folks who are subject to rheumatism.

OTIS SKINNER SCORES IN NEW PLAY

By NICHOLAS YOUNG

SOUND philosophy and good humor, running hand in hand, are choice morsels for the weary under any circumstances, but as you chuckled and tittered with Otis Skinner at the Colonial Theatre last evening, there was a joyous awakening to the fact that "Sancho Panza" exuded a brand of [illegible] and bright cheer that seemed made to order for the [illegible] playgoer, and gave proof that a costume play may have more to fall back upon than [illegible] raiment in silks, puffs and laces.

GORGEOUS STAGING.

Mr. Skinner moved upon his friends of the theatre in as gay and gorgeous a medium as the happily remembered "Kismet"—a medium less dramatic, perhaps, but seething with colorful comedy, infectious, irrisistible comedy.

"Sancho Panza" comes to the stage as a bit of the ever fascinating "Don Quixote," the swashbuckling valiant of the early Seventeenth century, whose chivalrous exploits were chronicled by Miguel de Cervantes.

As carried into high places by Mr. Skinner, the play is a fantastic comedy, tell the story of the faithful servant who wanted to be governor of an island. In the process of learning how governing is done, Sancho had many thrilling, as well as amusing experiences, but through it all he revealed himself a philosopher, taking notes on the unequalities of life and attempting to correct them. It was a fanciful story.

CAPABLE COMPANY.

The performance at the Colonial was brightened by more than Mr. Skinner's delicious characterization of the rapidly promoted sheep herder. There was a gaiety of color in costuming that would prove competitive for the brightest of Mr. Ziegfeld's productions; there was satire on the business of government, on court procedure and on the follies of life generally.

Mr. Skinner's own contribution was a faultless presentation of a highly amusing character—a typical Skinner performance in voice, reading and gesture. In support of the principal player a full brigade of actors toiled, with ample responsibilities going to Robert Robson, Charles Halton, Frederick Tiden, Russ Whytal, Marguerite Forrest, H. H. McCollum and Marion Marcus Clarke.

And prancing about the stage, an important member of the company and a useful worker in the story was Dapple, Sancho's faithful donkey. Dapple was a pleasure not to be denied—he shared honors with Mr. Skinner.

"Sancho Panza" carried the Colonial into the new year with a full load of happiness, good thinking and more fun than you would believe could be found in a fancy dress play.

"SLIDING" BILLY WATSON AT GAYETY

Billy Watson "slid" into immediate favor at the Gayety Theatre yesterday when he began a week's engagement with his "Big Fun Show"—literally slid, because he makes a specialty of slippery shoes and some ridiculously funny sliding. He has written for himself an amusing burlesque which he has titled "Hollywood Inn," but the work under any other name would still have Watson's slide to keep it moving swiftly. Supporting the popular star Inez de Verdier was disclosed as a statuesque and sweet-voiced prima donna; Ruby Wallace sang and danced with soubrettish appeal, and Ethel de Veaux proved to be an ingenue of girlish attractiveness and entertaining charms.

"UP SHE GOES" AT WILBUR THEATRE

"Up She Goes," a musical comedy adapted from Frank Craven's play "Too Many Cooks," began its local engagement at the Wilbur last evening. The piece had already been successfully presented in New York, Chicago and Philadelphia and has been rated as one of the real hits of the last two seasons. In the cast are Nancy Welford, Richard (Skeets) Gallagher, Frederick Graham, John Barker, Marguerite Farrell and Fannie Rice. The book is by Frank Craven, with lyrics by Joseph McCarthy and music by Harry Tierney, who did the same service for the very successful "Irene."

"Up She Goes" will be reviewed in Wednesday's American.

PRODUCTION COSTS SOLVED BY MOVIES

Hollywood, Cal., Jan. 8.—Production costs have been brought under control, thus solving a major problem for the Famous Players-Lasky Company and for the motion picture industry as a whole, it was announced by officials of the company coincident with a reopening of production work after two months of idleness.

A reorganization of methods and personnel has been effected, it was announced.

"THE CONSPIRACY" AT SOMERVILLE

"The Conspiracy" at the Somerville Theatre received an enthusiastic welcome. It is a play that is filled with thrills, unexpected situations and opportunities for all kinds of good acting. That the players amply satisfied the audience was proved by the salvos of applause that greeted each climax. Frank Thomas, Ann MacDonald and Bernard Nedell gave complete and satisfactory performances.

"ADRIENNE" HAS BOSTON PREMIERE

"Dick" Carle and Billy Van Chief Funmakers at the Tremont Theatre

Richard Carle and Billy B. Van make up a team of comedians whose equal would be hard to find in any theatrical company, but when these two comedians are supported by an excellent company gorgeously costumed and are furnished with the music and book of one of the best musical comedies of the year, then you can rest assured that they will deliver the goods.

And that is just what they do in "Adrienne," Louis F. Werba's new musical comedy, which received its Boston premiere at the Tremont Theatre last night.

Quite a few years ago Kipling wrote that "It ain't the individual nor the army as a whole, but the close co-operation of every bloomin' soul" and that is what makes "Adrienne" such a corking good show. Everyone works, but everyone works so that the audience believes that the players are enjoying it as much as themselves. They enter into the spirit of the play.

The story is of two crooks who founded a fake Hindu cult in order to gouge money from the society victims of their wiles. Of course they are exposed and of course the young hero marries the beautiful leading lady. But the incidents leading up to the exposure provide opportunity for a score of catchy musical numbers and a dozen pretty dances.

The cast of principals provided for Messrs. Carle and Van do not suffer in the least by comparison. Jean Tennyson is one of the daintiest young women seen here in some time. Besides being beautiful, she can sing and dance. So can Miss Pan Traver and the work of Jean Newcombe, as the domineering wife of Richard Carle, is worthy of more than passing comment.

Both Mr. Carle and Mr. Van are in their best vein. Their humor is spontaneous and they have no trouble making the theatregoer laugh.

"WHIRL OF GIRLS" WALDRON'S OFFER

Appropriately named "Whirl of Girls," the newest and most merry of burlesque shows was presented yesterday at Waldron's Casino as one of the features on the continuous performance program. Throughout the two acts and twelve scenes of the burlesque it is veritably a whirl of feminine loveliness. The stage is crowded with pretty singing and dancing girls almost every minute and they serve to charm the audience whenever the comedians cease for a moment their bombardment of fun. The burden of fun is carried by Vic Plant and Fred Binder, leading comedians.

FORBES' VIEWS ON FINANCE

By B. C. Forbes

If all the automobiles made last year were placed end-to-end they would form a line 10,000 miles long.

If all the cars in America were brought into such a line it would stretch 37,000 miles, or we could have ten rows of [illegible], packed close together, reaching from New York to San Francisco.

Every day we manufacture a line of automobiles thirty-one miles long.

Since the industry started, enough cars have been made to make up a line 60,000 miles long, enough to go round the earth twice.

The total wholesale value of cars and trucks turned out last year exceeded $2,500,000,000.

The tire business alone passed the $750,000,000 mark.

We hear a lot about the damage done by motor [illegible] roads. [illegible] of the amount of [illegible] money spent in road building.

[illegible] of $8,000,000,000 tax payments last year only $1,000,000,000 was spent on building roads.

The Federal Government has paid out to help States to build roads $264,000,000 since 1917 [illegible]

THE COMPANY AGREES TO MAKE APPLICATION TO LIST THESE BONDS ON THE NEW YORK AND SAN FRANCISCO STOCK EXCHANGES.

A letter from Charles N. Black, Esq., President of the Company, under date of January 5, 1924, to which reference is made for full details, has been summarised by him as follows:

FIRST MORTGAGE LIEN

These bonds will be secured by a first mortgage lien upon all the physical property of the company now owned or hereafter acquired. The Market Street Railway Company owns and operates a comprehensive street railway system serving the City of San Francisco., Cal., comprising a total of 272 miles of modern standard street railway track. The City Engineer of San Francisco in a valuation report made in connection with the proposed purchase of the railway, now under consideration by the city, has stated $40,000,000 to be a fair purchase price for the property. A valuation of $41,424,961 after depreciation, has been made by the engineers of the Railroad Commission of California. Ford, Bacon & Davis valued these properties at $52,210,195, after depreciation, as of June 30, 1920. These valuations are from 3 to 3⅞ times the amount of this issue of bonds.

SINKING FUND

The company covenants to provide a quarterly sinking fund of $500,000 per annum from January 1, 1925 through 1932. Bonds are to be purchased in the open market at not to exceed their redemption prices, or if not so obtainable are to be called, and kept alive until January 1, 1933 and their interest used to acquire additional bonds. The bonds then held in the sinking fund will be cancelled and thereafter the Company will provide a quarterly sinking fund of $300,000 per annum until maturity for like purchase or redemption. The bonds acquired will be kept alive and the interest thereon added to the sinking fund. The operation of the sinking funds, assuming bonds retired at call prices, will reduce this issue to $8,071,500 on January 1, 1933, and to $5,460,500 on January 1, 1940.

Proceeds from the sale of any mortgaged property are to be added to the sinking fund payments.

EARNINGS

The net income available for interest, Federal income taxes and depreciation reserves, for the year ended December 31, 1923, amounted to $2,435,488—over two and one-half times the annual interest on these bonds. The annual net income available for such charges during the five years ended December 31, 1923, was as follows:

1919	$2,110,797
1920	2,141,383
1921	1,828,376
1922	2,170,689
1923	2,435,488

BONDS ISSUED FOR REFUNDING

The proceeds from the sale of these bonds will be used for discharging the entire outstanding funded debt of the Company, consisting of $4,269,000 Five-Year 6% Collateral Trust Gold Notes, due April 1, 1924, and $9,239,500 5% First Consolidated Mortgage Gold Bonds due September 1, 1924.

FRANCHISES AND FUTURE OPERATION

None of the company's franchises expires prior to 1929. Thereafter various franchises mature, from time to time, until 1952. Lines on which franchises have matured in the past have been acquired by the City at a fair and satisfactory price, and under the terms of the mortgage the proceeds of any sale of the mortgaged property are paid into the sinking fund for the retirement of additional bonds. It is estimated, taking into account the maturities of franchises, that the available income during the life of the bonds will in every year be more than twice the interest charges on the bonds then outstanding.

These bonds are offered, if, when and as issued and accepted by us, subject to authorization of the company's stockholders and to approval of Van Vorst, Siegel & Smith, counsel, of all legal details and subject to the approval of the Railroad Commission of California.

BUYS FOOLISHLY.

To G., Lowell.—Having again looked over your list of stocks we must acknowledge that we have a very keen regret that you did not avail yourself of the services of this department before you expended your money on a list of worthless things. We could have helped you then. We might have been the means of saving you from loss. But, of course, that is too late now, and we are sorry for it.

FRANC AND MARKET

To L. C. C., Middle street.—"I do not like this continued weakness in French francs. I am not bullish on the market," is the declaration of an astute broker and trader. But, in the minds of many in the Street, the continued weakness in the franc will in the long run, prove bullish. This is because of the belief that the lower the franc goes that much sooner will come some real plan for a settlement abroad, which the French Government will accept. The recent offering of sterling, it is believed, is based on expectation that the Labor party will soon take command of the British Government. This is regarded by some as an upsetting factor, but to others it promises well in that it will mean earlier exchange of relations with the Russian Government.

PURCHASE APPROVED.

To D. N. L., Walkhill avenue—I approve of your suggestion to take American Telephone & Telegraph new 5% per cent. bonds.

BE CONSERVATIVE.

To H. N. M., Endicott—Having in mind your financial circumstances we urge adherence to a conservative standard in investing your funds. Half of your savings bank money would be well invested if placed in Northern States Power 6s, 1941, yielding about 6 per cent., and Pere Marquette first 5s, 1956, yielding 5.3 per cent.

WHY EXCITEMENT?

To B. R. S., Glendale street.—If you prefer a chance of excitement to market stability as an essential feature in the stocks you hold, you will get the desired change by switching from Pennsylvania to California Petroleum or Marland Oil, especially the latter. We disapprove of any such exchange most emphatically. There is not much difference in point of activity between Pennsylvania and Southern Pacific. Baltimore & Ohio common is ordinarily a more agile factor in the stock market, but in our opinion it is not as good as investment as Pennsylvania.

Get Expert Advice Before Trading in Stocks or Bonds

Before you buy or sell stocks or bonds you ought to get expert advice. You also need such information from time to time, as market conditions change, regarding your list of holdings.

Don't buy or sell blindly. You can't hit a target with your eyes closed.

You need unprejudiced counsel to help you determine what course to take. Such advice is yours for the asking. Address inquiries to Frank H. Meloon, Financial Editor of the Boston American, No. 80 Summer street, Boston, Mass., enclosing stamped and self-addressed envelope for reply.

SOUTH IN LEAD

To C. D. E., Mascot street.—In first eleven months of 1923 the Class 1 railroads of the United States showed a net operating income aggregating $906,061,900, equivalent to an annual rate of 5.15 per cent. on their tentative valuation, according to the reports of the Interstate Commerce Commission. This compares with a net operating income for the first eleven months of 1922 of $696,312,350, or 4.04 per cent. The Southern carriers were the most consistent earners as a group, the records show, with a rate of return of 5.97 per cent; the Eastern district came next with a return of 5.49 per cent., and then came the Western roads, with 4.56 per cent.

CENTRAL LEATHER PFD.

To D. L., Ashburnham.—As a whole your investment is sound and does not contain more than the average amount of undesirable stocks that alist composing thirty different securities ordinarily carries. Your greatest loss appears in Central Leather preferred, but we question whether you should dispose of these shares at a time when the industry is greatly depressed.

EASTMAN KODAK.

To J. Y. C., Columbia road.—Eastman Kodak ranks among the best common stocks. It is not worth the present price as a 5 per cent. dividend payer, but the extras have been paid in 1923 at the rate of $5 a share and this fact, coupled with the company's record for extra disbursements and the reasonable assurances of extras in the future makes the stock attractive.

GEN. ELECTRIC SPECIAL.

To K. J. S., Templeton.—There is no doubt that General Electric special stock is appropriate for a man of small means, but you are in error when you speak of this as a speculative investment. It has the same rank as the highest grade preferred stocks and is selling on an investment basis.

INTERBOROUGH.

To P. A. C., Pleasant street.—One reason for the low price of Interborough Rapid Transit 5s is to be found in the latest statements of income. In the four months ended October 31 the company showed a slight deficit after paying the Manhattan Railway dividend, and this without taking into consideration any sinking funds on the 5 per cent. bonds, which payments are suspended until 1926, the company agreeing during the five-year period of sinking fund suspension to expend a similar amount each year for improvements.

ANNUAL FIGHT OVER 48-HOUR LAW IS ON

Bills Extending the Working Week of Women and Children in Textile Industry Filed

The annual attempt to repeal the existing forty-eight hour law for women and children in textile industries and [illegible] manufacturing plants was started today when George [illegible] Long filed three [illegible] in the Senate.

One bill would [illegible] the existing law which [illegible] of women [illegible] from [illegible] until 10 p.m. [illegible] from 6 to 11 [illegible] at two shifts.

He further stated that Massachusetts is in competition with other States where the severe restrictions of this State do not apply and in order to better compete, the hours should not be so limited.

Another petition would amend the present law so that in certain establishments women and children may be employed fifty-eight hours a week or ten hours a day but not to exceed an average of fifty-four hours a week for the whole year. This is necessary because of seasonable employment, Mr. Long stated.

Among other arguments before the commission were those of the Merchants' Association of New York, the Pennsylvania Chamber of Commerce, Philadelphia Trade Bodies and the Anthracite Coal Operators' Association.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

Boston Health Commissioner.

A PATIENT who has suffered scarlet fever is commonly believed to be free from [illegible] when there is no longer evidence of inflammation or of catarrh of the nose or throat [illegible] [illegible]

Ordinarily [illegible] from [illegible] after [illegible]

[illegible] however [illegible] patients [illegible] too often [illegible] has been [illegible] results in [illegible] case [illegible] associates.

It is urgently recommended therefore that no scarlet fever patient who has been released from isolation be allowed to mingle with other members of the household on terms of usual household intimacy until two or three weeks have elapsed after his release and that during that period the patient be provided with his own cup, spoon and other eating utensils and sleep in a bed and if practicable a room, by himself.

TAKE SPECIAL CARE

Special care should be taken too to see that a recently recovered scarlet fever patient does not [illegible] there are [illegible] that the inflammation of the [illegible] and the [illegible] resulting [illegible] of an infection that would otherwise have [illegible] to do no harm.

Scarlet fever spreads because patients and the parents of patients do not adopt measures [illegible] the spread of scarlet fever as soon as any suspicion arises that a patient is suffering from that disease and because they do not suspect scarlet fever, as they should, in every case in which fever, sore throat, nausea and vomiting occur, and in every case in which a more or less widespread diffused reddened eruption appears from some unrecognized cause commonly first on the neck and chest but spreading rapidly over the entire body.

Failure to adopt preventive measures at the very moment of the discovery of suspicious symptoms is responsible in large part for the continued prevalence of scarlet fever and for many a tragedy.

Scarlet fever spreads too because of the prevalence of certain [illegible] carelessness and uncleanliness [illegible] of which [illegible] scarlet fever may be avoided.

HOW TO AVOID IT

Scarlet fever is most frequently caught from unrecognized cases of the disease. Against such cases the only safeguard is proper personal habits. Such habits should be made a part of the daily life of every one [illegible] until they become [illegible]. Some of the most important are as follows:

Use no [illegible] spoon or other eating utensil that has been used by any other person unless it has been [illegible] cleansed and has been sterilized [illegible] [illegible] means [illegible] fountains, lunchrooms, restaurants and similar places.

See that the food you eat is clean and comes from clean places.

Use only pasteurized or certified milk.

Put nothing whatsoever into your mouth that has entered the mouth of any other person, such as a pencil, penholder, eraser, toy balloon, pipe, etc., certainly not until after it has been cleansed and sterilized, if it must be put into the mouth at all.

Do not put your fingers into your mouth or into your nostrils.

Always wash the hands before eating.

See that the home and the place where you work and seek recreation and amusement are as well lighted and ventilated as practicable.

Keep yourself as well and as strong as is possible.

Dear Doctor: I have often [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible]

Answer: If you live [illegible] your doctor and ask this [illegible] he would tell [illegible] that a bran bath is good for the [illegible] especially if the baby's skin is [illegible] or if it has a rash [illegible] This may be prepared by putting the bran into a [illegible] bag, six to eight inches square, and soaking it in the bath tub until the water has the color of milk. Soap is not needed, and at any time in the case of a child with sensitive skin soap should not be used.

Dear Doctor: My husband suddenly developed a large sore or [illegible] lower lip and he is [illegible] years of age and never [illegible] warts or pimples or [illegible]. Do you [illegible] have it treated by a doctor?

Answer: Have your physician see it at once. There is an indication of cancer which may be cured at once if removed. It is dangerous and fatal to neglect it, especially if your physician diagnosed it as cancer.

Dear Doctor: In the city of Boston are there more people born [illegible] year?

Answer: There are more births than deaths annually in Boston. In 1923 there were recorded 18,509 births and 11,441 deaths.

DRYS OPEN WAR ON LOUIS A. COOLIDGE

Anti-Saloon League Says He Is Too "Wet" to Be U. S. Senator

The Massachusetts Anti-Saloon League has opened war on Louis A. Coolidge, candidate for the Republican nomination for United States Senator.

A meeting of the State board of trustees of the League condemned Coolidge's connection with various wet organizations and at the same [illegible] President Calvin Coolidge for the latter's stand for law enforcement.

This action means, as was predicted in the Boston American when Louis Coolidge announced his senatorial candidacy, that the drys will cast their lot with William M. Butler, campaign manager of the President.

It means, also, that the Anti-Saloon League has placed its official stamp of approval upon President Coolidge and that supporters of the President have nothing to fear from the dry Republicans of the Middle West.

TYPIST'S FIRST CUSTOMER GIVES HER A RING AND PROPOSES

GIRL ORDERS HIM FROM OFFICE

Young Russian Aristocrat Departs in Huff When Rejected

How many business offices in Boston are traps for girls seeking employment?

How many employers attempt to make love to their stenographer?

What are the temptations they offer to pretty girls?

How many capable girls are "fired" because they repulse these attentions?

What lies behind the casual dinner invitation?

What are the problems capable and honest girls with the famous "fatal gift of beauty" have to contend with?

The American prints today another instalment of Grace Madden's story. It is the story of an innocent little girl who lived and learned [illegible] pher only [illegible]. Read what she found out.

By GRACE MADDEN

I know now how the doctor, the dentist, the lawyer, the architect, in fact, everyone who has an office and hasn't a clientele feels when he's waiting for a customer. The first day none came. It was disheartening.

About noon of the second day I heard footsteps in the corridor. I began to pound on my typewriter as though I were busy. A man opened the door and came in carrying a brief bag. I m[illegible]

"Miss M[illegible]

[illegible] you?"

"I wa[illegible]

He unb[illegible] out so[illegible] thump[illegible] and I w[illegible] would [illegible]

He hand[illegible] papers.

"Now you [illegible] one of the [illegible] the cont[illegible] full editions left and [illegible] hem [illegible]" etc., etc.

The laugh [illegible] patiently [illegible] ned I said to him.

NOT A BOOK AGENT

"I'm [illegible] books myself or I won't be able to pay my board." He departed and I resumed my [illegible].

Toward 4 o'clock the door [illegible] again. A tall young man with a very polished [illegible]. He carried a brief bag.

"Mees Madden?"

"Yes, but I am not buying any books just now because I haven't the price and I don't want to waste your time letting you explain the wonders of your particular offering."

He blushed crimson. "You 'ave made a meestake. I weesh you to do me some work."

It was m[illegible]

The young [illegible] me he had [illegible] he wished to [illegible] typed.

"My Eng[illegible] [illegible] I [illegible] decide what [illegible] man's [illegible] I [illegible] them. [illegible] he told me. 'My [illegible] old country and now I [illegible] script.'"

I [illegible] right and needed a great deal of correction. [illegible] that I was to be paid extra for translating them into English.

And so my business started. The young Russian was one of the most [illegible] experiences in my career. [illegible] Most of them [illegible] some of them [illegible] box on my desk. "You are so nice to me I [illegible] this token."

BEAUTIFUL RING

He stood very close to me and I felt uneasy.

I took the box and snapped it open. Enfolded in the ivory tinted lining was a ring. Its beauty had anything I had ever seen before beaten a mile. A [illegible] flawless pearl was set like a bud in an intricate spray of leaves made from inlaid onyx.

"Oh, I couldn't accept that."

"[illegible] this is only [illegible] country to present gifts to a lady what we [illegible]."

"[illegible] here we never take presents [illegible] we are engaged."

"[illegible] engaged you?"

"Not that way," I explained. "I [illegible] unless we are engaged to be married."

He looked at me steadily for a minute and then his eyes grew [illegible] glowing coal.

"Ah yes? Then we will engage to be married."

I didn't fancy myself the wife of a Russian aristocrat even for such gorgeous jewels as the ring on my desk. I wanted to laugh, but the expression of "Nick's" eyes restrained me.

LOSE MY TEMPER

"I am engaged already," I told him finally, and I tried to look the way I thought a blushing bride-to-be should look.

Nick watched me for a minute. "You do not tell the truth," he said calmly. I snatched up the box with the ring in it and held it out to him. "Take your jewelry and get out of here. Don't ever come back!" And I waited, shaking with wrath (and laughter).

"Nick" picked up his hat, gave me a look that told me I was indeed common clay, walked majestically to the door and went out.

I stood there holding the ring.

GREAT FLEETS NEAR PANAMA FOR 'BATTLE'

Joint Army and Navy Manoeuvres Designed to Test Defences of Canal

Aboard the Transport Cambrai, En Route to Panama Canal Zone, Jan. 2 (I.N.S.)—On the assumption that strained relations exist between the United States and a hostile power, two great American fleets are today closing in on the Panama Canal, where next week will be staged a picturesque and realistic "battle" intended to test the value of the canal in the American scheme of national defence.

The battle for the big ditch in which 150 warships, a brigade of marines, 9,000 canal zone and eighty-nine aeroplanes will take part will begin next Monday when the wireless flashes the word that "war" between the United States and the enemy power is effective.

[illegible] will feature [illegible] joint army and navy man[illegible] under[taken] in time of pe[ace] [illegible] expected to prove of the gre[illegible] and military [illegible] an illuminating answer to the following questions:

1—C[an] [illegible] canal zone be protected against a sudden attempt by a hostile power to [illegible]?

2—Could an enemy suddenly close the canal by wrecking a vital part, thus preventing the United States [illegible] to join the Atla[ntic] [illegible] or the A[illegible] Pacific [illegible]?

The vanguard of the Pacific fleet, led by the [illegible] California, steamed out of [illegible] Harbor last Wednesday, effected a junction at sea with the fleet base force and is now heading for the western mouth of the Panama Canal. Two days later, on January 4, the scouting fleet based on the Atlantic and, headed by the U. S. S. Wyoming, sailed for the eastern mouth of the canal.

These two great fleets will face each other, the Atlantic (Black Fleet) representing the enemy, the Pacific (Blue Fleet) representing the United St[ates] [illegible] war [illegible] assumed [illegible] Pacific [illegible] entry [illegible] canal when the passage [illegible] the enemy [illegible]

The engagements are expected to last all next week. The battle will be decided by designated umpires and the military and naval conclusion arrived at referred to the joint Army and Navy Board.

Far-East Paintings by Smiths at Art Museum, Says Betty Alden

By BETTY ALDEN.

A SLANT-EYED TEVEDA, with her gorgeous, temple-like headdress and raiment of red and blue and gold, stands out as one of the few touches of color at the exhibition of paintings done by Joseph Linden Smith and his daughter, Miss Rebecca Smith, now going on at the Boston Museum of Fine Arts.

For the paintings were all done in Cambodia, Java or Egypt, and all but a very few are bas-reliefs of the wonderful old temple now musty and moss-covered with age.

To enter the room where these works are hung is to feel the mystic and old-world spell, which only the Far-East seems able to cast.

The colorful Teveda was done by Miss Smith, who has also done another dancing girl—this one in more sombre tones of green and gray—copied from the wall of Ankor-Wat.

Probably one of the finest pieces in the exhibition is the large painting of the bas-relief of a temple which Mr. Smith did while in Java. Others are canvases of Egyptian kings and their tombs, all of them exact replicas of the original.

IT seems very hard to associate pretty Rebecca Smith with these old world monuments of antiquity, for she is very young. She is slender, of medium height, and has masses of blonde hair which contrast strikingly with her large, dark brown eyes.

But despite her youth and charm and social position, this young girl seems entirely devoted to the brush and easel. Just at present she and her mother and sister, Miss Frances Smith, are wintering in the far Southwest, where Miss Smith is painting pictures of the American Indians.

The Smiths are a much-traveling family, and the Beacon Hill home on Mt. Vernon street sees very little of them. Sometime in the not too distant future, Mr. Smith and his daughter are planning another jaunt into the Far-East in search of new scenes to conquer on the canvas.

RECENTLY returning for a brief visit to the parental nest was Mrs. George Endicott Putnam, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles S. Sherburne of Beacon street.

Mrs. George E. Putnam

For several years the Putnams have been making their home at Woodmere, Long Island, but the former Sarah Sherburne keeps in close touch with her many Boston friends.

Last Summer when Mrs. Putnam and Mrs. Frank Wigglesworth (Isabella Councilman) went abroad together, Mrs. Putnam left her little twin sons in the care of the grandparents. Also making the European trip with Mrs. Putnam and Mrs. Wigglesworth was the latter's sister, Mrs. William O. P. Morgan, now of New York.

MISS REBECCA SMITH

Is Backache Keeping You Miserable?

Are You Dragging Around Day After Day, Lame, Stiff and Achy—Tired, Weak and All Worn Out? Then Follow the Advice of These Boston Folks!

ARE YOU worried all day long with that nagging backache? Do stabbing twinges torture you at every sudden move? Are you lame, stiff and achy; tired, worn out and miserable?

Then you should give some attention to your kidneys! Kidney weakness makes thousands of young people old, and thousands of old folks unhappy.

And the pity is, the cause is so often unsuspected; the weakening of the kidneys so often overlooked.

The kidneys are the blood-filters. They filter every drop of blood in the body every seven minutes. Healthy kidneys do the job thoroughly. But weakened kidneys allow some part of the body-poisons to remain. Blood and nerves are upset by these toxins and the whole system put out of tune.

The back aches, one suffers sharp, stabbing pains and feels dull and "draggy," nervous, irritable and depressed. The head aches, there are dizzy spells and there are apt to be annoying kidney irregularities.

"Use Doan's," Say These Boston People:

CHARLES JACKSON, Retired Carpenter, 338 Meridian St., East Boston, says: "A cold settled in my kidneys and caused lame back. When I got down it was hard to raise on account of the misery in my back. My kidneys acted too often and I had such dizzy spells I almost fell. I used Doan's Pills, and two boxes cured me." (Statement given July 14, 1922.) On October 6, 1923, Mr. Jackson said: "Doan's Pills cured me of kidney trouble and I am glad to confirm my statement."

MRS. D. R. NEAL, 359 Silver St., says: "I felt out of sorts and always had a worn-out feeling. There was a soreness in the small of my back and when I stooped a sharp catch seized me. My kidneys acted too freely. I got a box of Doan's Pills at Jones' Drug Store. They drove all symptoms from me."

Nuxated Iron contains iron like the iron in spinach, lentils and apples, and like the iron in your blood. You will be astonished at the results often even in a few days' time. Nuxated Iron is a powerful strength and body builder.

Try taking Nuxated Iron for two weeks and note the astounding change in your general health, force and energy.

STELLA DALLAS By Olive Higgins Prouty

New and Intensely Interesting Serial of a Marriage of an Educated Man to an Untutored Woman

HOW THE STORY STARTED

Stella Dallas and her husband, Stephen, do not live together. They have a daughter, thirteen years old, named Laurel, who stays most of the year with the mother. They visit a Summer hotel in New England, where the other guests look askance at the painted, overdressed elder woman. The time has come for Laurel to visit her father in New York. He meets her at the station and takes her to a hotel. She goes to visit Mrs. Morrison. The story now goes back to the marriage of Stephen and Stella at Milhampton. Stella starts a flirtation with Alfred Munn. The leading women of the town begin to drop her. Stephen, deciding he can never go back to her, starts a divorce suit. The story then goes back to Mrs. Morrison's marriage to her aged millionaire suitor. The latter dies and Stephen confesses his love to the widow.

By OLIVE HIGGINS PROUTY

UNTIL Stella moved to Boston, Laurel had preferred a tramp in the country, or a call on Jake, or Tony, or peg-legged Eddy, to the movies; or a stolen pilgrimage to the little house that used to be red, where the mysterious old man whom she must never tell was her grandfather, lived, to a vaudeville or play. But in her new solitude, where there was no place to go and nowhere to call, Laurel looked with interest upon the diverting interior of any amusement place.

She went to the movies with her mother three times a week regularly. They climbed to gallery seats at Keith's every time the bill was changed. On Saturday nights Stella and Laurel usually dressed up in their best clothes, and dined at a fashionable hotel, ordering the lowest-priced entree on the bill, dawdling over their bread and butter, as they observed the gay parties about them and watched the waiters bear in marvelous planked steaks and Peach Melbas.

It was a bleak and forlorn sort of an existence for both mother and child, and terribly shorn of human contacts. But it needn't have been quite so bleak and forlorn and shorn, Stella said, if Laurel hadn't taken such a dislike to Alfred Munn. Ed tried to be awfully kind. He called at the apartment before they had been in it a week. He tried to be awfully kind to Laurel especially. But the child couldn't [illegible] him.

"I can't [illegible] that man, mother," she had said as soon as the door had closed upon him after his first call. "Don't let him come again."

There was a red spot in the centre of each of her cheeks.

"Mercy, mercy, Lollie," laughed Stella. (Lately Lollie would flare up like a little firebrand every once in a while over the littlest things. Her age, probably, Stella concluded.) "Why, what's the matter with Ed?" she asked lightly, humoringly.

"He's horrid!"

"Horrid? How's he horrid?"

"He tickled me in the [illegible] and said I was pretty and kissed me."

"Well, what of that? You're only a little girl. Why shouldn't he tell you you are pretty, and kiss you?"

"His lips were wet and his breath smelled. Oh, mother!" shuddered Laurel. "Don't let him kiss me again. Don't let him come here again."

"Now don't be silly, Laurel. I can't tell Ed Munn not to come here again. It would be awfully rude and bad mannered."

"But he's rude, he's bad-mannered."

"Why, Laurel, how can you talk so about a gentleman who's trying to do [illegible] to us?"

"He [illegible] a gentleman."

"He's [illegible] of [illegible] I [illegible] you like so, who spits and swears, and that Dago who sells fruit, and came over steerage."

"Jake isn't dirty—only on the outside and Tony is not a Dago. He's a Greek and he comes from a place in Greece where the most [illegible] in the world [illegible] Jake [illegible] don't kiss me and Jake and Tony [illegible] you."

"And what things did Ed say about [illegible]?"

"When you were out of the room he put his arm around me, and told me he thought you were pretty too."

"Well?"

"He [illegible] and that [illegible]"

"Why not? I don't call that hot [illegible]"

"Don't you [illegible]"

"Certainly not. Why shouldn't he say it, if he thought it?"

Laurel [illegible] confused and perplexed. She didn't know how to answer, how to explain. She had never liked Ed Munn, but her dislike of him had never swept over her like this. It was frightening. Her sudden hatred of the man was like a [illegible] that had rolled upon [illegible] and enveloped her [illegible] she had turned toward her [illegible] for compre[illegible] had groped for a [illegible] But no hand had [illegible]

[illegible] Laurel turned and [illegible] her face in the pillow on [illegible] couch and burst into violent weeping. Of late many of her [illegible] were like enveloping [illegible] love and worship as well [illegible] and [illegible] Her passion [illegible] Morrison was [illegible] understandable [illegible]

Laurel sat on the edge of the pier with her feet swinging over the edge. A girl about her own age sat on each side of her. Their arms were thrown lightly around her shoulders and [illegible] around [illegible] of the girls were in white except for their Bonnet de Montel colored sweater—pale pink, pale yellow and faintest lavender.

The three girls made as pretty a display against the gray blue of the lake as a fragment of rainbow [illegible]

Stella had to tell Ed at last

What Is the Effect Upon the Two, and Especially Upon Their Strange and Beautiful Child Laurel?

[illegible] swinging feet floated [illegible] red and [illegible] sun. On [illegible] was [illegible] and jars, and [illegible]

Laurel was [illegible] conscious of [illegible] Laurel could conceal joy and pride [illegible] as success [illegible] and [illegible]

"NO, dear. But—it expects big things of you," I ventured again. "It takes you at [illegible] own value. If you seem con[illegible]

"I suppose not. How should [illegible]?" I parried.

"You didn't tell her?"

"How could I? [illegible] Betty [illegible] me Anne. Park always says 'Mrs. Anne Harrison.' And what impression Mrs. Thurlow got I don't know. But she took it for granted that meeting me in a group of six, she could entertain me in the same group."

"[illegible]," muttered Jim without much expression.

[illegible] last night—I smiled.

"I came home at 10. I had a directors' meeting," snapped Jim. "And I found you'd [illegible] off [illegible] I tell you Anne [illegible] combination of [illegible] desire to [illegible]"

"Why, Jim, I didn't know you'd be home late. I thought you were with—"

"I know darn well what you thought. [illegible] You stand for [illegible] friends [illegible] you please. And you don't listen to a single demand—request I make."

"Since we can't talk without quarreling, I for one think we'd better keep still. I'm through, Anne. I've had enough arguing. I'm off."

When Jim snapped that since we couldn't converse without quarreling we'd better keep still and then rushed from the breakfast room I thought we were going through a temporary storm re[illegible] I didn't like his attitude, but I made up my mind there was a lot to be said on his side, and so I could afford to overlook his show of temper.

I could see that he was chagrined and humiliated at the idea of having Mrs. Thurlow invite me to dinner without him, and since she knows Jim, I was ready to confess that the view was legit[illegible] I decided to ask Betty if it would be permissible for me to telephone and ask Mrs. Thurlow for an invitation for Jim.

But work piled up so fast and [illegible] the day that all else was driven out of my head. And when I got home at night and found Jim there, but as silent as a ghost I wondered if I had been prevented from action in a [illegible] matter by my guardian angel himself.

All [illegible] dinner I made vain efforts to engage Jim in conver[illegible] monos[illegible] [illegible] indifference and absent-mindedness [illegible]

For a day or two Jim [illegible] ignored [illegible] And [illegible] farther apart [illegible] late one afternoon and asked me if I would dine with her that night.

MRS. SOLOMON SAYS---

By HELEN ROWLAND

Helen Rowland

COME not unto me, O ye Simple Ones, saying, "Alas, romance is no more and sentiment hath passed away.

"For the hearts of the YOUNG are colder than iced melons, harder than a bootlegger's conscience, and deadlier than yesterday's kiss."

For, verily, verily, romance abideth, now as always, in the heart of every youth. And, beneath all her rouge and sophistication, sentiment dwelleth in the heart of every damsel.

But, alas, courtship is forgotten, and LOVE-MAKING is a lost art!

Go to! What CHANCE hath a man to make an art of his wooing?

For, lo, there are no more back parlors, where a damsel may turn on the pink lights and the soft pedal and the sentimental song.

There are no more front piazzas with dim corners.

Therefore, chide not any youth because he doeth his courting between the soup and the fish, his proposing over the telephone, his wooing in an automobile, and his choosing with his eyes shut.

And blame not the damsels that their lives are devoid of poetry and dreams, and pressed flowers, and moonlight, and sweet surprises.

Yet, they know not what they have MISSED.

If we lack strength and nerve power we should always think first of our blood. Discouraged or exhausted men and women should get from their druggist's today a generous size bottle of Wincarnis. Start this home treatment at once. It costs less than ten cents a day. In twelve days see the improvement Wincarnis, the blood builder, brings. No need to worry. That maddening irritation

Within the hour you can have relief

PERHAPS you have given up hope of instant relief. An itching or burning rash or eczema—perpetually annoying and embarrassing! Whether it be on arm, neck, body or face, this simple way will bring relief where nothing else may have helped.

A formula developed twenty-eight years ago by a well-known physician in his practice, and at first distributed only through doctors' prescriptions, Resinol has today become in thousands of homes the first remedy applied to any sort of skin affection. Thousands of users have wondered at the quickness of its action. In many cases the itching stops immediately, and in a few days the clear, clean texture of the skin is restored. Even a light application sinks deep into the pores, attacks the root of the disorder, and starts the skin again acting normally.

If you have today any spot, rash or irritation on your skin, apply Resinol. One application will, in many cases, stop the itching completely. Resinol is absolutely harmless. It will not irritate an infant's skin, or even raw exposed flesh. It does not deteriorate or lose its effectiveness with time. Get a jar at your druggist or send for a free trial sample to Dept. 2, Resinol, Baltimore, Md.

CORRECT MANNERS

By Mrs. Cornelius Beeckman

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

When going to an engagement party, is it necessary to bring a present to both young lady and young man, or just send flowers with greetings to the young lady's home, where the engagement party is being held? I am a very close (male) friend of theirs.

F. D.

THE sending of flowers to the young lady at her home the day of the party is the very best taste and will show the young lady that you know "What's what" in etiquette. Enclose your visiting card, either without a message on it, or, if you wish, with "With best wishes" written on it. Either is good form.

Engagement presents, like wedding present, are usually not given to the gentleman. It is, however, perfectly good form for you to give a gift to the groom-to-be to commemorate the event. But I suggest that, if you give the gift to him, you wait and give it later, not at the party.

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

I have a stepfather by the name of Mr. Jones, but I go under my own name of Miss Smith. When presenting any of my gentlemen friends, how should I introduce them?

I have been in the habit of saying "My dad," but then, naturally, the introduction is acknowledged by my name.

ANXIOUS.

ADD the name, "Mr. Jones," after you say, "My Dad." Say "My dad, Mr. Jones; Mr. Brown." I would not change the "my dad," since that is an affectionate term for your stepfather, and still you should spare him and your friends the embarrassment of a wrong name, especially under the circumstances. And say the name distinctly.

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

(1) My friend and I are invited to a wedding (we are not engaged). Who should buy the presented to the couple?

(2) What would you suggest giving?

(3) If we give one gift from the two, what signature should appear on the card enclosed?

(4) How should the gift be presented to the couple?

(5) Is it proper for the young man to buy the gift?

MARC C.

YOU should not send a gift together. It is bad taste and might create unfavorable comment. Each one send the gift that he or she can afford.

(2) It is difficult to answer the question unless you tell me how much you have assigned to the purchase of the gift. Anything for the new house is, of course, appropriate; a piece of silver, linen, crystal, books, an enamel clock, a picture, a detail for the tea table (lemon fork, tea strainer, muffins tray, etc.), book ends, a "bud" vase, or a covered bon bon dish.

(3) You would have to put both signatures on the card, which (I hope that you will decide) will look awkward.

(4) The wedding gift should always be sent to the bride.

(5) No, not for both. Why should he? A gift means a personal thought not somebody else's thought for you.

HATE AND REVENGE HAVE NO PLACE IN LIFE

What do you gain from holding a grudge against some person and thinking constantly how to get even?

What you are doing to get even may be the very thing that they most desire you to do—and then what?

Life is too short to spend in hating or in revenge, and the fact that you want to do another harm is doing you more harm.

It is one thing to have a grudge and quite another to have a well formed reason for preventing a certain person from doing what you feel is damaging to others.

If it is damaging to yourself you should endeavor to stop it.

If it is damaging to helpless others and you can put your shoulder to the wheel and change things, even if it does get you the enmity of the certain person responsible for it, be big enough to incur the displeasure in a good cause.

But never stoop to personalities.

RADIO AMERICAN

INDEPENDENT STILL WRECKS PROGRAMS

But American's Anti-Interference Campaign Is Bringing Results

By THE RADIATOR.

The one wireless company wrecking more broadcast programs than meters, is Independant Wireless Teleany other by accepting traffic on 450 graph Company, as must be apparent to anyone who has followed the daily log of interferences reported by the American's monitor station, and published daily.

Back early in the campaign to eliminate needless interference, the Radio Editor of the American wrote to the various wireless companies asking their co-operation.

The biggest of them all, the Radio Corporation of America, answered at once, in the most courteous terms, saying that orders had been issued to its shore station operators to refuse to accept any traffic on 450 meters during the hours from 7 to 11 p. m. nightly. Attention was also called to an earlier order to all Radio Corporation operators not to send on 450 meters.

FRIENDLY SPIRIT.

The Tropical Wireless, which had been violently evident in and near Boston because of its powerful station on the Board of Trade Building, immediately instructed its operators to keep off broadcast waves till after 11 p. m. This also was in the most friendly spirit of co-operation.

But the answer from the Independent Wireless Telegraph was apparently written in an entirely different spirit.

We were "advised to study this subject a little more closely and get the true facts before attempting to discuss the matter."

We had called to the Independent's attention the Radio Corporation order to keep off broadcast waves, and asked the Independent to do likewise. Our answer was, in effect, we didn't know what we were talking about anyway, and the Independent didn't believe the Radio Corporation had issued such an order, and if it did, the Independent had evidence that it was not being obeyed. But no offer by the Independent to issue a similar order, in spite of a profession of great interest in broadcasting.

Meanwhile the interference log has been pointing out the Independent Wireless as the consistant offender. Sunday night the SS. George Washington, at 8:33 p. m. called the Independent shore station at East Hampton on 450 and asked specifically for a change of wavelength to 706 metres. WSA, the Independent shore station, refused, insisting that the George Washington stay on 450. And this 450 interference lasted, intermittently, till after 9:30.

The interference log has repeatedly called attention to this situation. With what result?

We'l one immediate result has been a thinly veiled threat that unless we stopped calling attention to the interference by the Independent the company would place the matter in the hands of its attorney. Says C. J. Pannill, vice-president:

"We need only to call your attention to the danger to our business in such erroneous statements and if we have another occasion of this kind we shall be forced to place the matter in the hands of our attorneys for such action as they may deem necessary."

In another statement, accompanying the letter telling us about the company's attorneys, Mr Pannill specificially says:

"I cannot speak too strongly against the elimination of the 450 meter wave length without the assignment by the Department of Commerce at Washington of an additional wave length to meet all emergencies."

It is only fair to say that in the same statement Mr. Pannill says:

"Instructions have been issued to our operating department that in the operation of ship to shore communications they must NOT use 450 meters between 7 p. m. and 11 p. m., excepting in cases of distress or other urgent messages."

ORDER HELPS.

We believe this company has issued such orders. We believe also that its operators will obey such orders. And whether the Independent attorneys like it or not, we believe that this action by the Independent will do a great deal to clear up the cause for complaint of unnecessary interference by spark stations with broadcast programs.

So, Mr. Broadcast Listener, forget all about the lawyer part of Mr. Pannill's letter, and sit down and write him, at 35 Water street, New York City, thanking him for issuing his order to his Independent ship and shore station operators to keep off 450 meters during the broadcast period.

THE BOSTON AMERICAN,
80 Summer Street,
Boston, Mass.

Dear Sir:

My attention has been directed to page number fifteen of the Monday, December 31st, 1923 edition of the Boston American, in which your radio department appears to have attempted to place our company in the wrong light with the public. The third paragraph of this story is not in accord with the facts, since we have evidence that other stations are permitting vessels to transmit on 450 meters.

We need only to call your attention to the danger of injury to our business in such erroneous statements and if we have another occasion of this kind we shall be forced to place the matter in the hands of our attorneys for such action as they may deem necessary.

I am enclosing herewith a statement of our company in respect to interference with broadcasting. I have already written your radio editor as per the enclosed copy, and I trust that you will take steps to place our company in the proper light before the public.

Very truly yours,

VICE PRESIDENT

REPRODUCTION OF LETTER TO THE AMERICAN

WSA IS STILL RECEIVING ON 450 METERS

Company Declares It Cannot Avert Interference Because of Heavy Traffic

The Radio Corporation of America was caught in a slip last night by the Boston American monitor station operator.

This is the first time since this company issued an order to its shore stations to refuse traffic on 450 meters between 7 and 11.

At eight minutes to 11 WIM, the Radio Corporation station at Chatham, told DRM, a German ship, to send on 450 meters. At seven minutes before the zero hour WIM told GBZL, a British vessel, to send on 450 meters.

Since this is WIM's first offence, however, it is likely that it was an error. We suggest that WIM watch the clock closer.

WSA, the Independent Wireless Telegraph Company station at East Hampton, N. Y., continues to grab 450 meter traffic during the height of broadcasting.

In spite of the repeated assurances from Vice-President Pannill of the Independent company that he wishes to do everything possible to prevent interference with broadcasting, he has not taken the final step of ordering his shore station to refuse 450 meter traffic.

His excuse is that traffic is so heavy that it is impossible to avoid accepting messages on 450 meters.

Yet the Radio Corporation of America, which is faced with the same problem as the Independent company, does not permit its shore stations to accept traffic on 450 meters during the broadcasting hours.

25,000,000 IN U. S. RADIO AUDIENCE

Half of Those Voting About Their Favorite Selections Declare for Jazz

Chicago broadcasters estimate that there are now more than 25,000,000 in the radio audience. The estimate is based upon a vote of their listeners as to which kind of entertainment was most popular.

A total of 263,410 votes showed about half the people want jazz and a fourth want classical music, and that forty-nine out of fifty neglect to write to the broadcasters in such a vote.

Using the ratio of one to fifty, it is estimated that over 13,000,000 people listened to the three stations asking for the vote, WJAZ, WDAP and KYW.

WJAZ alone received 170,699 replies, which indicates on the one to-fifty basis an audience of 8,534,950. The returns in one day to this station numbered 20,152 pieces of mail, representing an audience of over a million during one night.

Radio Queries

Radio Editor:

I am building your four tube super, using the hookup which appeared December 18 with the exception that I have added jacks to the detector and first and second stages of audio. Results so far have been poor. I got local stations fairly loud, but not with the volume that I should. Once in a while I get Pittsburgh and Schenectady. Here are some of the peculiarities. At times I can turn the radio-frequency tube off entirely and hear music with equal volume. If I remove the tube from the socket the signals are cut off. Also when the tubes are lighted I get a spark at the 90-volt B battery binding post by touching the wire at that point. I also hear a constant rushing noise or hissing sound in the phones. Was this hookup correct? W. S. G.,

Boston.

Your trouble is probably defective jacks or fixed condensers, or wiring. Test particularly the by-pass condenser, C3. The rushing noise is generally the result of burning the detector tube too brightly. The diagram as shown was correct.

Radio Editor:

Please send to the above address some information on the new Super set.

Lawrence. D. B.

Now that back copies of the American have been exhausted, you will have to wait for the new complete booklet, which will be ready soon.

Radio Editor:

I have a crystal set and hear WGI and WNAC very loud and clear, but cannot get WTAT. Some crystal sets even got WEAF lately, but I never have.

Cambridge. W. E. H.

WGI and WNAC use more power that WTAT. Radio receivers, both crystal and tube, work differently in different location for no reason.

Radio Editor:

Do you know of any station that was broadcasting at 7 a. m. Saturday, January 5? It was on about 325 meters wave length. E. W. C.

Newport, R. I.

No. Did any other listener hear this station?

Radio Editor:

On Saturday, the fifth, between 10 and 11 p. m., I received speeches from some hall. I got a speech on income tax very clear. There also was some singing, one of the songs being "Yes, We Have No Bananas." I would like to know what station it was. R. E. S.

West Everett.

We do not know. Did any other listener hear this?

BEST RESULTS BY SUPER TO WIN PRIZES

Number of Stations and Distances in One Evening to Fix Standing

Believing that the American Super is a humdinger, the American Storage Battery Company, in conjunction with the Boston American, has agreed to give four of the best types of Haryard radio storage batteries for the best results obtained with a Super.

This will be determined by the number of broadcasting stations with their distance, obtained by a Super in one evening.

The four storage batteries offered for prizes were selected as being the types best in demand. They are the very latest types manufactured by the American Storage Battery Company of Boston and have many new features.

PRIZE FOR DISTANCE.

For the owner or builder who gets the most distant station the prize is a 100-ampere hour battery enclosed in a rubber box inside a polished mahogany cabinet.

The Radio Editor unhesitatingly recommends these batteries. They are built to allow a liberal margin of safety in the matter of ampere-hour capacity, and each size has the proper number of plates.

The contestant may choose any evening of next week, January 13 to 19 inclusive, as the evening for the test. He may, in fact, listen in every evening, and then send in his report for the evening on which the best report was obtained.

The report must be made on the blank shown on this page, or else on a blank made out in the same way.

This provides a place for the name and address of the contestant, the date on which the test was made, the number of turns on the primary and the secondary of the radio frequency couplers, the type and capacity of condenser used, and whether the condenser dials are graduated from 1 to 180 degrees or from 1 to 100 degrees.

For each station received, the contestant should record the exact time, the station call letters, the city in which the station is located, the settings of the two dials and the distance of the station in miles.

REMEMBER DATES.

In addition to this, he should note what selection was heard at the time noted, and file this with his report, so that, if necessary, his reception may be confirmed.

Also he should preserve his set intact to allow for examination by a representative of the American, if necessary.

The contest is open to anyone using a set embodying the general principles of the American Super. If you have built such a set as has been described in the American, but used a different number of turns on the radio-frequency couplers, or a different value of condensers, you may enter the contest without question, just the same.

The Listener

Had one of those self-styled "radio experts" over to the house the other night and, believe me, he was the cat's suspenders. Aside from possession of a copious quantity of radio jargon, which he loosed at me on every occasion, I don't figure he was much expert at anything. He tested my B batteries by touching the wires together to see if they sparked all right. I am willing to bet I have learned more radio from the newspapers during the last six months than he ever knew.

WEAF is still playing with that new 1,000-watt-and-over transmitter. One night they come pounding in as if they were next door and the next day they take their accustomed place with WJZ and WOR in volume. Some night, after broadcasting hours, listen to 2XB, the experimental call of the same station. This is when they appear to give their transmitter a loose rein, and the volume is tremendous.

Although I sometimes complain about the poor showing WJZ gives orchestras I had no kick coming during the broadcasting recently of Victor Herbert's orchestra from the Cosmopolitan Theatre. The volume was tremendous, and what is better, the tone was excellent.

One of the reasons why songs from WEAF are so good lies in the fact that many of the soloists are accompanied by Winifred T. Barr. She has the business of radio accompanying down to perfection. And that is no easy job, because with the delicate microphone, a piano accompaniment has a good chance of being too loud or too soft.

GAY-HEARTED COLLEEN IN "OLD NEW YORK"

MARION DAVIES

Brilliant young film actress who has stellar role in big Cosmopolitan Production opening at Park Theatre, Boston, next Monday.

MARION DAVIES LIKES TO PLAY IRISH HEROINE

Cosmopolitan Star Tells Why Role of Patricia O'Day Appeals to Her

By MARION DAVIES

I have often been asked what sort of a screen role I like to play best. I haven't any particular choice when it comes to playing a princess, an heiress or just a poor neglected girl such as Diana was in the first part of "The Young Diana." But when it comes to nationalities, give me the Irish! If I am given an Irish role to play I can just be my natural self.

An Irish man or an Irish girl is alternately swayed by tears, tenderness and laughter. I think they live life higher and deeper than almost any other race of people. Some screen actresses love to portray the fiery, sensuous Latin types and I'll admit they give a chance for some fine acting, but personally I love best to portray warm-hearted laughter loving colleen.

ENJOYS ROLE.

That's why I have so enjoyed playing the part of Patricia O'Day in my new Cosmopolitan picture, "Little Old New York." Coming of Irish ancestry myself, I entered with all my heart into the problems which beset poor, plucky little Patricia upon her advent into this big strange, unknown America.

What person wouldn't sympathize with just a little girl suddenly torn from her peaceful home in old Ireland and set down in an utterly strange environment in a country far across the sea.

Of course, I cried when Patricia lost her father, and when her brother was buried at sea. How could I help it? Just thinking about the plight of poor Patricia and how I'd feel if I were in her shoes was enough to make me cry. In fact, I can't see how anyone who interpreted the role could help crying.

FORGOT ACTING.

I used to shut myself in my dressing room at Cosmopolitan studios for an hour before it was time for me to go before the camera when we were making "Little Old New York." I would think and think about Patricia and how dauntless and plucky she was. Then when I stepped upon the stage and the violins were softly playing "Kathleen Mavourneen," and "Don't You Hear Me Calling," or some other plaintive Irish melody, it didn't seem to me that I was acting at all, for I naturally behaved just as I felt Patricia would.

Good Resolution

Editor Boston American:

Got your resolutions all framed and ready for adoption? Well, if that is all fixed, the next and very natural question is, have you decided on what date you will break them? Why not decide to be square with the other fellow and let it go at that? You'll feel so much better in the long run.

TOMMY GREEN.

England a Blackjacker

Editor Boston American:

Perhaps the following brief extracts from a recent speech by Edward C. Plummer of the U. S. Shipping Board may shed some light on how England blackjacks any rival on the seas.

1—A Chicago manufacturer, who ships goods destined for Australia over an American railroad to San Francisco, has the freight charge added to the cost of the goods by the Australian government for basing their tariff duties. If the same goods had been shipped over a Canadian railroad to a Pacific port the Australian customs duty would be based on the Chicago value.

2—American cement producers had been trying to get into the markets of Brazil against propaganda which claimed that American cement was worthless. Therefore, cement was sent for trial as a gift, and proved so superior to the European article that a large order was placed for it. There was no American steamship line then in existence and the European lines at once raised the rates for transportation so high that the order was cancelled.

3—When Argentina asked bids on fifty locomotives and Americans were the lowest bidders, the freight rates were immediately raised so high that the order was cancelled.

English authorities have always been ready to hijack, blackjack or, if necessary to accomplish their purpose, bootblack any rival on the seas.

Why Women Smoke

Editor Boston American:

There are good and bad in most of us, but restraint common sense and God fearing prevent most of us from becoming morally wrong. However if one has made a mistake it doesn't mean that he or she should continue doing wrong. Numerous foolish young ladies drink and smoke, not because they like to, but because they think it looks smart. A woman should not have a weakness for fine clothes unless she or her parents can afford them. Let her pick her associates from broad-minded men, and not from the dance halls, for man acts toward woman just as she carries on herself and behaves accordingly.

No Worry Here

Editor Boston American:

The Hoboken butcher who continues to enjoy life at one hundred and four has at least one splendid theory and that is, don't worry. While I scarcely figure I'll be cutting chops at one hundred and four, yet I propose to live several more years for the very reason I let the other fellow do the worrying, even should I happen to owe him. And I'm seventy-three.

Excusable Murder

Editor Boston American:

Well, well. So the colored man down in Texas suffered his first sickness during his 106th year. Perhaps his father scolded him for talking ugly to his grandfather. Why wait until sunrise?

THE HELPING HAND

my city I might be able to take the things to them, and I would have more from time to time, as my twin girls grow so fast.

MRS. A. L. K.

When one is facing the likelihood of no clothes at all, "not the best in quality" often look like silks and satins. You have been sent the address of Mrs. H. J. K., whose husband is working only three days a week, and who is trying to keep a large family warmly clothed.

Many Things Offered

Editor Helping Hand:

I have three suit coats, one short oiled coat to fit a boy of twelve or thirteen and a large, heavy comforter, medium size. Can you send some name who has not been supplied? Also will give one full-size National spring and mattress and one child's crib.

L. M. B.

Thank you. You have been sent the address of Mrs. C. W., who will be very grateful for these things.

Deserving Case

Editor Helping Hand:

A deserving case is that of Mrs. E. A. M. of Roxbury. For twelve years alone she has kept a home for a sickly girl thirteen. She has not earned a dollar in six weeks, on account of the condition of the girl, who is dying. They haven't a dollar ahead. Could you interest somebody? The writer has done all possible.

G. T. D.

Plush Coat

Editor Helping Hand:

I have a plush coat, in good condition, size 38, for some needy mother, and also some underwear and shoes that will fit a girl ten. I will send them parcel post to any address you send.

MRS. H. M. S. 2.

Thank you. You have been sent the address of Mrs. R. L., who wears size 38, and who has a girl ten.

Fine List of Clothes

Editor Helping Hand:

Please send me the name and address of someone who could use the following: One heavy Winter coat for a man and two suit coats size 34, two pairs of men's heavy underdrawers, one vest, one pair men' low shoes size 7½, shoes for a three-year-old child and rompers and stockings for the same.

Thank you. [illegible] address [illegible] of Lowell, whose husband is working only three days a week.

Winter Coat for Girl

Editor Helping Hand:

Have you a girl fifteen to seventeen on your list who is in need of a Winter coat? I have a brown one in good condition which I would like to give to some poor girl. I have also a three-quarter-length black pony fur coat, size 40 or 42, which would do for a middle-aged woman.

M. A. S.

Thank you. You have been sent the address of T. M. B., who wears size 40, and who has a girl of sixteen, both of whom need coats.

Need Medicine and Clothes

Editor Helping Hand:

I am writing to ask if there is a kind reader who could help me through your column. I have four children, the youngest a baby boy nine months old. I take him to the baby clinic, and the doctor has ordered Dextri-Maltose No. 1 for him, and I find it impossible to get it, as my husband gets such small wages, and we have so many to care for. My other children are undernourished too, and I would like to save the baby if I can. All the other children need clothing. They are girls nine and two and boys eight and nine months.

MRS. S. W.

Overcoat for Man

Editor Helping Hand:

I have an overcoat, size 36 or 38, for a man, and dress for a girl ten.

G. S. 2.

Thank you. You have been sent the address of A. G., who will be very grateful for these things.

Coat for Mrs. D. C. 6

Editor Helping Hand:

If you will send me the name and address of Mrs. D. C. 6 I will send her a coat. I have your letter with the address of Mrs. B. C., and I have written her today and will call the first part of the week and take clothing for the new baby. I still have the two overcoats for men, size 40 and 42.

MRS. A. G. G.

Thank you for all you are doing. You have been sent the addresses of Mrs. D. C. 6, of Mrs. M. P. S., whose husband is out of work and will appreciate the size 40 overcoat, and of J. C., a blind man, who will be grateful for the other overcoat.

Read Ralph Nevill's Book

Copyright, 1924, Star Co.

Ralph Nevill, English author, writes a book, "The World of Fashion," which spans the changes which have come to London and to English life since 1837.

It reviews kings, queens, princes, habits, soldiers, theatres, clubs, wars, statesmen, jokers, dinners—all the angles of existence, with the flash of anecdote to light the personalities of the most renowned, both English and alien, from Gladstone, who went to sleep while Tennyson read his poems, down to Northcliffe, who complained that the rumbling of carts disturbed his sleep, only to find that they were his own newspaper vehicles.

Queen Victoria, Alfred Austin, Beaconsfield, Charles Beresford, Burne-Jones, Chief Justice Coleridge, ex-Kaiser Wilhelm, Spurgeon, Sir Henry Irving, Lloyd George, Parnell, Oliver Wendell Homes, Stead, John Hay, Joseph Pulitzer and many others are introduced in casual fireside fashion.

The author traces the leveling of distinctions, the decline of family life, the revolution in propriety, and, taking the reader up and down the streets of London and rural England's highways, tells who and what has come and gone.

It has the ease and interest of arm chair reminiscence.

A Suggestion to Gov. Silzer

Let Prohibition Agents Exercise Wise Caution

Copyright, 1924, Star Co.

The State of New Jersey, in a laudable fight against lawbreaking and smuggling of alcoholic liquors, examines with especial energy at Christmas time automobiles from other States.

A man driving along a New Jersey highway is suddenly stopped, "held up" by men that investigate his car with searchlights, and, finding no contraband, allow him to proceed.

This would be all right if the driver were notified in a manner unmistakably OFFICIAL.

But the holding up of cars is done in unexpected places BY MEN NOT IN UNIFORM. Nothing indicates to the driver of the car that he is not being held up by the common or garden variety of bandits.

And there is nothing apparently to prevent that ordinary bandit going through the motions of a prohibition agent with searchlight, and then when the car is stopped comfortably and conveniently robbing the inhabitant.

The authorities, of course, should enforce the law, including and ESPECIALLY the laws against bootleg liquor. But would it not be possible to search cars entering the State in well-lighted places, at ferries or passing through towns or villages?

What would be the exact responsibility of a driver flustered or frightened should he shoot a man in civilian clothes ordering him to stop his car?

Is the citizen, as a matter of fact, bound to stop his car whenever told to do so by a man not in uniform in an out-of-the-way place?

What must the citizen do to make sure that the individuals in civilian clothing holding him up are not highwaymen but earnest prohibition agents?

Strange Animal Man

Our Chimpanzee "Blood Brother"

Copyright, 1924, Star Co.

The Museum of Natural History has a frog that lives in the Andes Mountains and carries its young in a pouch on its back like the kangaroo, except that the kangaroo has the pouch in front.

The female of that species is plain, and dumb, having no vocal cords. The male is decorated with fancy colors. Nature, thou art unjust.

There is another frog that has many little pouches in the back from which the young frogs hop when they are ready for an independent life. Nobody knows HOW the eggs are deposited in the mother's back.

Other animal news comes from the Governor of French West Africa. He won't let anybody kill our little brothers, the chimpanzees, without a special permit. Only scientists can have permits. The animals must be caught in nets or traps, not wounded.

How, asks good Mr. Bryan, can you PROVE any relation between the chimpanzee and me? No proof, Mr. Bryan, but interesting facts. For instance, Mr. Bryan's blood mixed with that of a chimpanzee, by transfusion, would agree with the chimpanzee and mix nicely with the chimpanzee's blood, both being about the same. But mix the same high grade "primate" blood with that of a lower animal, and the lower animal would die. We are closely related physically, however far apart we may be mentally.

Guns? Yes, It's Customary

But Airships, No

Copyright, 1924, Star Co.

There is protest because the United States sells weapons for which it no longer has any use to help President Obregon in his present Mexican fight.

We sold weapons, dynamite, all sorts of killing machinery, to any of our good friends in Europe that could pay. In [illegible], we lent many of them money to enable them to buy [illegible] here. There doesn't seem any "business" reason for no[illegible] selling to Mexico.

Some object on the ground that Mexicans presently may use the same weapons to shoot some of our people. But you always take that risk when you sell a gun.

It would be wise, however, NOT to sell flying machines. If they are NOT safe, it's immoral to sell them. If they ARE worth anything this country needs them.

LISTEN, WORLD! -:- By Elsie Robinson

Elsie Robinson
DON'T BLAME CUPID FOR EVERYTHING.

WE blame marriage for so much discomfort that is in no way peculiar to marriage, but is simply part of the adjustment of living. All this misery of the adjustment of one personality to another, for instance. Well, if you're going to make a success of yourself, your personality will have to become adjustable whether you marry or not. In many ways we are simply highly complicated machines. Your new auto isn't of much use until it has been "broken in." You can't go over 25 miles an hour at the start, or take the hills on high, or make any fancy record until the parts of the car have learned to work together. It's a cranky performance, breaking in that machine—but you know it will pay in the end.

What is true of an automobile is also true of a human being. You aren't of much use until you have been broken in. Marriage is just one of the conditions under which that adjustment takes place. And because that adjustment is a cranky performance we blame marriage for it. But the adjustment would have to take place anyway. You have to learn consideration, patience, cheerfulness, diplomacy, sooner or later before you can ever make any records in the human game or gain any power. You're going to be bored, worried, exasperated, discouraged and imposed upon in any program which you may outline for yourself. You're going to be sick and in debt and generally heckled by fate. You're never going to have the life you dreamed of having, whether you marry or not. That's the human lot. We all get more or less of a rough deal as we scramble through the years. Then why not face those facts when considering the success or failure of your marriage?

Analyze the sum total: Just so much is due to the general process of living. Then you can't blame your wife or your husband for that. Just so much more is due to the fact that you are Yourself—to your own cussedness and weakness. That cussedness or weakness would have caused trouble for you even if you never had seen your mate. So you can't blame your husband or your wife for THAT.

When you've subtracted these two sums, the bill of complaint against marriage is considerably smaller, isn't it?

But unfortunately we seldom stop to subtract anything from our peeve against marriage. We expect it to be a miracle worker. If it isn't, we curse our FATE. It's supposed to hand us happiness on a silver platter as soon as the fateful words are said. We may never have gotten along in any other alliance, we may be about as popular with our relations and business associates as a dose of hives, but if the slightest unhappiness arises after marriage we howl like Comanches and blame it on the spouse.

Series of Misfortunes

Editor Helping Hand:

I have never before had to ask for help, but ill luck seems to have pursued us relentlessly recently. Last year my boy fell and broke his arm. Four weeks later he was taken to the hospital for an appendicitis operation. He was out of bed only two weeks when he broke the arm again. About the same time, the baby had an abscess on her neck that had to be lanced, and while the boy was in the hospital my husband had an attack of the grip that laid him up for two weeks. After that my nerves went to pieces and I was under the doctor's care all Summer until this Fall, when I was operated on. My husband had the grip and an ulcerated tooth which laid him up again. The result is that we are swamped in doctor's bills and grocery bills and we all need clothing badly. My husband needs an overcoat, size 46, to wear to work, as he has none now. The baby needs a coat or any old dresses or warm stockings. She is a year old, but takes size 2. MRS. A. L. 3.

For Needy Children

Editor Helping Hand:

I have a few articles of clothing which I will gladly send by parcel post to some needy children if you will send their name and address. They include a wool mackinaw coat, mittens, sleeveless sweater, pair of pants and several waists for a boy of five or six; coat for a child of four and some clothing for a tiny baby. MRS. J. D.

You have been [illegible] Mrs. A. W. G. who needs clothing for her baby, and the address of Mrs. E. S., who needs clothes for boys of the age you mention.

Generous Clothing Offer

Editor Helping Hand:

I have a few baby clothes which I would like to give to some needy mother. Also a coat to fit a year-old child and some men's soft collars size 16. I have interested a neighbor in the Helping Hand, and she has some underwear to fit a small man and also an overcoat. She also has a coat which would fit a sixteen-year-old girl and a woman's coat about size 38. I have a cotton crepe dress that would fit a sixteen-year-old girl. I may be able to pick up some other things later. I read the Helping Hand every night, and I wish I could help all. MRS. J. A. G.

We send our thanks to both of you. You have been put in touch with Mrs. E. E., who greatly needs baby clothes, and with Mrs. G. W. C., who will be grateful for the other things for her family.

Poor Helps the Poor

Editor Helping Hand:

I have some clothes, dresses and underwear for a girl of six or seven which might be of use to some poor family. Also have a few men's shirts which could be made into little dresses for a small tot. Am very poor myself, so some of these things are not the best in quality, but might be worn for everyday to save their better clothes for school. If you could send me an address near

DR. FRANK CRANE ON DOING MORE THAN REQUIRED

THE only way to do enough is to do too much.

As it has been well put: "Doing more than circumstances require is the surest way to satisfaction."

You may be able to lay brick to exact measure. And, indeed, exactness is necessary in making a typewriting machine, an automobile or a 75-centimeter gun.

But a man is not a machine.

Man lives by superfluities.

The only way effectively to be kind once is to be kind a hundred times.

The only way to get your little act of love over, to make it register, is to perform about two hundred acts of love.

This seems to be Nature's law.

When Nature wants to produce one hundred apples on the trees she wastes about two thousand blossoms. When Nature sets out to water your garden with her rain she waters all the dusty road and even pours her streams on the river.

In other words, to do one thing that is needed, Nature does a hundred things that are not needed.

In the miracle related in the Gospels we are told that about five thousand men were fed upon five loaves and two fishes. It is said: "And they did eat and all were filled: and there were taken up of fragments that remained to them, twelve baskets."

We often complain of the smallness of our reward when we do good. But the beauty of doing good lies in the very fact that if we do good at all we must do so much that there remain twelve baskets full.

The tides of life and light and power which the sun pours down upon the earth are but a tiny fragment of the amount that it is pouring out all through empty space.

So a good woman sheds her influence upon many a heart where there is no response and no apparent result. But she goes on being good.

So an honest man is honest a thousand times when he sees that it gets him nothing.

These are the sowers who go forth to sow and of their seed some falls by the wayside and some upon stony ground.

But here and there the seed takes root in good soil, springs up, and bears fruit a hundred fold.

There is no one hundred per cent. efficiency in love. There is only a probable fraction of one per cent. But from this comes the most amazing truth in the world, that in spite of its apparent waste and uselessness in so many instances, love is still the greatest known power and from generation to generation grows apace.

For this reason no man has a right to judge the effect of his good will or his righteous conduct by results.

To live the higher life is not at all a matter of mathematics or intelligence or any kind of knowledge. It is a matter of faith.

It is a matter of confidence in those higher cosmic laws which only great souls can see.

GARRETT P. SERVISS ON SERPENT WORSHIP

I DESCRIBED briefly in one of these articles lately a visit to the mysterious "alignments of Carnac" in the Department of Morbihan, France. These consist of long parallel rows of elongated, and often curiously-shaped stones, set solidly erect in the ground, and varying in height from two to fifteen or twenty feet.

There are altogether about 4,000 of these "menhirs," as they are called, still in position, and many of them are believed to have been standing there during at least 4,000 years. But probably a still greater number have been destroyed, partly to be used in building, and partly in consequence of the war which early Christianity waged against "the worship of stones," which had come down from a dim antiquity. Thus Charlemagne in the year 789 decreed that all persons should be treated as guilty of sacrilege who refused to destroy, or opposed the destruction of these symbols of heathen idolatry set up in their fields.

New Symbols

In view of such things it seems surprising that so many have escaped destruction, or removal, but an explanation is suggested by the fact that, later on, the representatives of Christianity bethought them of making these same stones sacred by marking them with new symbols which would alter their signification. And at last the awakened intelligence of men began to throw a shield around the old menhirs as precious monuments of the historical development of our race.

I am led to return briefly to this subject by recent renewal of speculation concerning the precise purpose that the constructors of the lines of Carnac had in view. In the eighteenth century Dr. Stukely suggested that they marked the site of immense temples of "ophiolatry"—i. e., of serpent worship. Since four of the principal alignments consist of parallel rows, varying in number from ten to thirteen, and extending an average length of three-quarters of a mile, it is evident that they could never have been covered with a roof. So they must have always been outdoor temples, whose limits and passages were indicated by the rows of menhirs.

Dr. Stukely's suggestion, at first widely accepted, afterwards fell out of notice, but now has been recalled, in a rather startling manner, by the discovery, on the buried base of one of the most remarkable of the menhirs, of the figures of three serpents carved on the stone, together with another nearly obliterated figure the significance of which is not clear.

This discovery in turn recalls the observation, made many years ago, that the lines of menhirs are not straight but curiously sinuous. A natural impression would be that movements of the soil in the long course of centuries might have thrown them out of exact coincidence, but reflection shows that such a cause would hardly be adequate to account for the uniformity of the flexure of the lines, which is seen in all of the fields. It is argued, therefore, that this sinuosity was purposely introduced as a structural peculiarity, symbolizing the serpent worship, for whose ceremonies the strange alignments were made.

In deference of this theory it has been pointed out that all religious structures, including Christian cathedrals, always contain, or embody, in their architecture some symbolic representation of the basal idea on which rests the particular worship that they stand for. Thus the nave and transept of a cathedral intentionally represent the two beams of a cross.

Serpent Mound

In connection with this it is very interesting to recall the fact that in the State of Ohio we have a most significant reminder of ancient serpent worship in the celebrated "Great Serpent Mound" in Adams county. This mound is one of the most extraordinary pre-historic monuments in our country. We do not know how old it is; we do not know with certainty who its builders were; and we may be thankful that the narrow spirit of bigotry has never had an opportunity to destroy it.

How thought is teased by speculation when we ask ourselves: What was the origin of serpent worship, and how did it become spread over both the worlds, eastern and western, so long ago that they had forgotten their connection when Christian civilization again revealed them to one another?
